

Don't complain about why you're single, this is the answer for you

By the age of 30 you are still single and have not yet found yourself a real half. What is the cause? Please refer to the following reasons.

Do you feel sad and a little shy, when your peers have a lover or a husband and child, but you still do not have a relationship? Everywhere you go, everyone asks if you "have a lover"?

Have you ever asked the question "is your appearance so bad that you still don't have a lover". So to answer that question, please see the following reasons to see if I have anything to fix and find a lover.

1. Afraid of being rejected by the enemy

This is probably the most common cause in most men and women today. Although you really have feelings for that person, you still always keep in your heart a unrequited love without daring to confess to him. You are worried that if you confess if the person agrees, it's okay, but if he denies you, you'll be hurt. So many people are not ready to deal with injury, so they choose the safe way to keep it and see it as a secret.

Life is not always full of roses, it is a lot of obstacles and challenges so be confident to face it to overcome yourself.

2. The criteria for choosing a lover are too high

You often like to watch Korean movies or read love stories and imagine images of marshal characters, or a pretty princess in those stories and want to have a lover as in the story. there. Or you are a very difficult person, always want everything in your eyes to be perfect. Although in today's life no one is perfect and can meet your requirements. So you should learn to accept and live more realistic. It is for these reasons that you have lost a lot of opportunities in life and then you will feel regret for the past.

3. Still questioning old people

As we also know the first love is often the most emotional affair, the most memories for anyone. However, the first love is usually less successful and it often leaves a wound in our hearts for a long time, making you remember your ex.

So this is also the reason that you are single for a long time, not a girl can accept a person who still questioned her ex too much, always taking her ex to tell and compare. So change and overcome the past to live a happier life.

4. Low self-esteem

You always want to get yourself a true love, a true lover who cares and shares everything in life with you. But you are always self-deprecating about yourself, self-contained negative thoughts make people around you become alienated from you when they want to be near you, care about you more. Confidence in yourself because of your confidence will make it easier for you to succeed.

5. Fear that tying in life

Many mature men today are afraid of being forced by marriage and children, afraid of getting involved in what is the responsibility of a relationship.

There are often unprepared men ready to move on to a strong and lasting relationship, they may still be free to worry without worrying about other relationships, so that's also why you're still single.

6. You are a job lover

There is a saying: "When we are young, it is impossible to have perfect love and career." Is this also a reason you are single? However, it is only a few, many people succeed because of a sustainable and happy love. The main reason here is definitely because of you, you can't arrange for work and love to be in harmony with each other. You always live for work, you always want to devote yourself to your work and always be in the business, so make sure you don't have time to date anyone. And that is why you are forever alone.

Is there another reason why you have not found your half, please share with us!

Wish you always have fun and soon have a true love!

You finished reading the article "Don't complain about why you're single, this is the answer for you" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.