Combining Dota Auto Ches playing strategy makes it easy to get into the TOP 3

1. Reserve

You only need to buy units when you see them, so you will have more options, with 1-star units, this is necessary because you can sell them later. One more thing is that when playing this strategy, pay attention to the amount of interest.

2. Juggling

If your reserve slot is full, take out some units and buy more units to upgrade. When the time starts running, move the pieces with Q, then reset when they have leveled up.

3. Overflowing

If gold is stored, you can place 3 to 4 pieces from your reserve slot on the field, then start buying and refreshing and hope to get the desired pieces. And the number of units in your reserve slot will increase by 10 to 12 units in just 30 seconds. But you must quickly make combinations in the standard time, and if you fail, you must sell the additional pieces, then prepare the pieces back to their positions.

4. Observe the opponent

You can preview your opponent drafting to estimate their strength and the number of chess pieces available, so you can arrange your chessboard accordingly to fight your opponent.

5. Arrange chess board position

How to arrange chess effectively in Dota Auto Chess is that you always need a frontliner, and it is important to backline protection before Assassins. In addition, you can place Hero Ranges in the corner or edge of the board, and it is important to learn how units move to better understand where they move.

6. Counter-Positioning

This tip is quite useful when there are only a few opponents left, so you should predict your opponent's placement and arrange your units accordingly to gain an advantage.

7. Managing gold

If you know how to manage your gold, you will have a chance to win even if not very lucky. If you are lagging behind, play in a practical way and choose a reasonable strat, so the chances for you at the end of the game will be higher. 8. Selling your blood

At the beginning of the game, chess pieces usually have a low price, and at this stage you will not lose much HP. So in the beginning of the game, it will not be bad for you to lose consecutively to get more gold to earn in the losing sequence. However, this only applies in some cases when you will lose many rounds to use the gold hold.

Not to mention the winners you will have 1 more gold in the series of successive wins, and you, too, get 4 gold in successive series and use it to build your chessboard.

9. Throw or lock the item

Some items after auto-matching are not suitable for use, so throw items into the ground, or lock them by right-clicking to prevent them from combining.

10. Courier placement

Courier has a wide range of moves, so make sure your courier is always in the middle of your reserve slot, so you'll save 1-2 seconds of preparation. Also, at the end of the game, you and your opponent are weak, make sure that the Courier position is away from the board to extend the time to take damage as well.

11. Reroll

You may start reroll a little earlier than necessary to be able to find the important pieces on your board before your opponent soon gets them. If you are losing, you cannot play in a passive way because there will be no pieces left for you when you want.

So successive victories will be necessary, sometimes rerolls a little sooner, it will be beneficial, because by the end of the game you may have to spend more effort to have the desired pieces.

12. Focus on a Build path

At the end of the game, you need to figure out what your line up will look like and it is important to plan before your mid-game lineup is finished. Also consider what your opponents are building.

13. Focus on choosing 3-star troops

3-star chess seems to be a pretty big investment, you should only focus on the 3-star hero you will need the most. Do not have to mess up when your slot is full, just select and focus on the strongest pieces, and should only choose up to 1 to 2 of them.

14. Know how to manage time

First upgrade your chess pieces in 5 seconds while in the Ready state. When the game starts, look at your table to see who the opponent is, then switch to other opponents across the map to explore the situation, it doesn't take too much time for that and sometimes, You don't need to spend time with your chessboard but take the time to focus on observing your opponent.

Here are some strategies to play and tips on Dota Auto Chess will help you get into TOP 3 easily. Please apply at the right time in the game.
