Just like previous updates, Microsoft is still rolling this update out, and you'll have to perform a manual update to get it sooner, or wait until it's widely released on Windows Update on May 19th.

The April 2018 Update includes many new features, with the Timeline feature being the biggest update. It allows you to see which applications are running across your entire computer system, as well as the applications and activities you've used on your Windows 10 computer in the past 30 days. Along with that are many other features such as spell checking, improvements to Microsoft Edge, faster Bluetooth synchronization, and more. Install the update and experience it for yourself!
