From yesterday, October 12, users can download and use Norton 360 software for trial version 6.0.

From yesterday, October 12, users can download and use Norton 360 software for trial version 6.0.

Symantec said Norton 360 6.0 beta version outperformed version 5.0 in key performance-related indicators, typically increasing up to 50% of the average file copy rate.

Users can manage security settings and remote subscription updates, and can easily check device stability or fix errors.

In addition, the key features of the product line remain, including Norton Insight (Norton's security technology based on top reputation using anonymous software samples sent from millions of people). Using Symantec worldwide helps automatically identify and prevent malware that has never been known), and SONAR (monitoring running applications to promptly detect suspicious behaviors, copper Time to prevent security threats of unknown origin.

The new version of Norton 360 incorporates core security technologies included in Norton Internet Security 2012, along with outstanding features such as computer tuning (PC tuneup) and backup capabilities.
