Only Up is still a feverish PC game for many PC game players because of its game mechanics and difficulty. You will fall to the ground if you accidentally slip while climbing other obstacles.

And if you slip, you will have to start from the beginning, which will make you lose a lot of time and discouragement because having to re-run a high and long distance is very difficult. Only Up on iPhone is not like that, you can return to the checkpoint you just passed, so it will not take too long for you to return to the point where you fell.

Step 3: The game will have many different parts to play, playing part 1 will unlock part 2 and so on in the next parts, select Play to start playing. Around the main interface, you will have options like Skin Shop, remove ads (ADS) and return to unlimited checkpoints.

Step 4: Every time you slip and fall, you will be prompted to return to the check point, the first time is free and from then on you will have to watch ads.

"Only Up" is an endless runner video game. In this game, players will control a character to jump over obstacles to climb as high as possible. Your goal is to climb to the top and be the winner.

The game has a simple gameplay but will require players to have a focus and quick reflexes to avoid collisions and not slip and fall. Although it is an inhibiting game, Only Up is easily addictive and it gives players the feeling of having to reach the top.
