

Dragon Ball: Top 5 Power States That Are Hard to Achieve

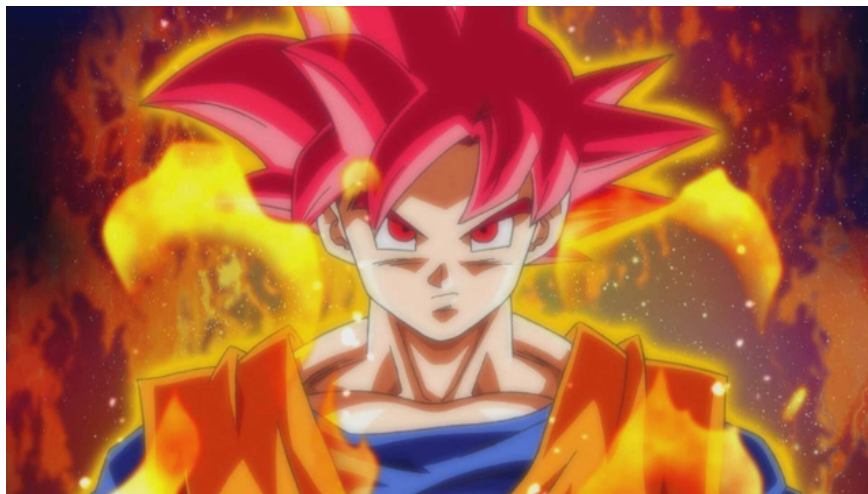

The Saiyan race has many different power states. However, not all states are easy for Saiyans to achieve.

The Saiyan race has many different power states. However, not all states are easy for Saiyans to achieve. This article will introduce you to the 5 most difficult power states to achieve in Dragon Ball.

Saiyans have many different power states, each state increases the user's power to a certain extent. However, to achieve some states, Saiyans not only need to train hard but sometimes also need luck and special situations.

Super Saiyan God

This is a state where the Saiyan not only gains increased strength but also significantly increases attack speed and movement ability. However, achieving this state is not simple. The Saiyan will need 5 other Saiyans with pure hearts standing around, holding hands and transmitting energy in unison.

In particular, the person who can achieve this state must be a pure Saiyan. That's why up to now, only Goku, Vegeta and Broly can achieve this state.

Super Saiyan Blue

This is not an easy state to achieve no matter how strong a Saiyan is. Because only Saiyans surrounded by the Ki of gods can break through and reach this state.

However, the only place with enough Ki to surround is the place where the god of destruction Beerus lives. Therefore, to reach this level, Saiyans must have permission from Beerus or Whis to practice and achieve this state of comprehensive offense and defense. According to the assessment, Super Saiyan Blue is one level higher than Super Saiyan God. Goku and Vegeta are the ones who have achieved this state.

Infinite Instinct

Goku had to absorb the entire Genki Ball he created to be able to awaken to this state. However, this is still not the best state of Ultra Instinct. Goku also had to go through Whis' guidance to achieve the most perfect state. So to achieve this state, Goku not only needs training but also luck.

Goku is currently the one who possesses the Ultra Instinct state at the perfect level.

The Supreme Self

This is also a state that is as difficult to achieve as Ultra Instinct. Instead of being guided by the angel Whis, this state requires the guidance of the god of destruction Beerus. The Ultimate Self not only requires immense power but also requires a destructive nature to master.

Vegeta was the one who achieved this state under the guidance of Beerus.

Legendary Super Saiyan

This is the rarest state in Dragon Ball of the Saiyans because only one in thousands of Saiyans can achieve this state. Right from birth, Saiyans who can achieve this state have superior strength.

Legendary Super Saiyan is a state that not only increases the user's strength and speed in combat but also increases the user's defense to the highest level. The only downside to this state is that the user will lose their mind and attack the target in a crazy way. The first person in Dragon Ball introduced to be able to reach this state is Broly.

Which of the 5 power states above do you feel most impressed with? Leave a comment and discuss the power states in Dragon Ball with TipsMake.com.

You finished reading the article "Dragon Ball: Top 5 Power States That Are Hard to Achieve" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

