

Error 502 Bad Gateway and how to fix it

When surfing the web, you encounter the error message 502 Bad Gateway. So what is this error and how to handle it? The article below will guide you on how to fix the error.

Before going into details on how to fix the 502 Bad Gateway error, you should check your network speed to see if there is any problem.

INSTRUCTIONS TO FIX ERROR 502 BAD GATEWAY

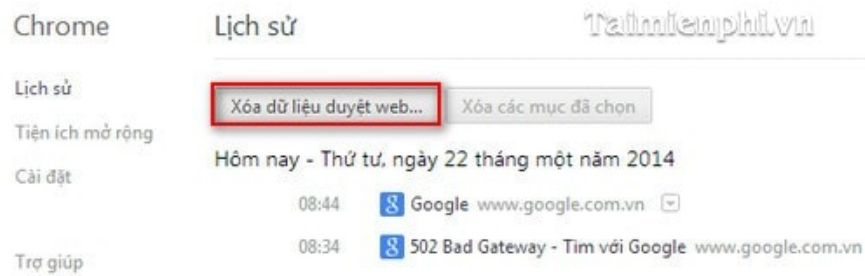

Step 1 : Open the browser (Chrome), click on customize and control (three dots in the upper right corner).

Next select History (or use the shortcut key Ctrl + H).

Step 2 : Click on Clear browsing data.

Select the " Everything " timeline . Then, select " Clear cookies and other site and plug-in data " (or leave it as default). Tap " Clear browsing data " to have the browser automatically clear it.

The above article has instructed how to fix the 502 Bad Gateway error when accessing the website. Now you just need to reopen the page. If the computer cannot access the network, it may be due to network problems or IP conflicts. Check and fix IP conflict errors if encountered.

You finished reading the article "Error 502 Bad Gateway and how to fix it" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.