

Every day there are 2 billion minutes of chatting on Skype

Skype's representative on April 4 announced that Skype users now spend about 2 billion minutes chatting on the calling service in this form of VoIP.

Skype's representative on April 4 announced that Skype users now spend about 2 billion minutes chatting on the calling service in this form of VoIP.

According to SlashGear, 2 billion minutes a day spent on Skype is a huge number, and if it is specific, this 2 billion minutes is about 1,388,000 days and equivalent to about 3,805 years.

It is known that Skype is a part of Microsoft when it was acquired for $ 8.5 billion.

Therefore, there is a version running on platforms like Android and iOS, but the version for Windows Phone is getting more favored.

You finished reading the article "Every day there are 2 billion minutes of chatting on Skype" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.