

Explore the rainbow-colored village of fever in Indonesia

No need to go far to see the rainbow, you can look at the rainbow teacher whenever you visit Kampung Pelangi village. Let's TipsMake.com discover the seven-color rainbow village fever in Indonesia.

1. The mystery of a giant 1.5-meter-long worm eating both hydrogen sulfide and rotten gas
2. 10 smart designs help the Government control people's actions every day
3. 20 interesting facts about EYES may be unknown

No need to go far to see the rainbow, you can look at the rainbow teacher whenever you visit Kampung Pelangi village. Kampung Pelangi, a shabby small village in Indonesia, has transformed into a beautiful tourist attraction thanks to its vibrant colors and bizarre design, which is a big change from its previous appearance. .

Kampung Pelangi is a shabby village in Indonesia. However, recently it has put on a new face, colorful and full of vitality. With an amount of over $ 22,000 from the Indonesian government, the Kampung Pelangi village repainting project was undergoing renovation. The idea of ??refurbishing this village was initiated by Slamet Widodo , a 52-year-old principal. After seeing at least three other towns in Indonesia repainted, headmaster Slamet Widodo thought that the place he was living in should also be changed.

Therefore, at least 232 houses in Kampung Pelangi village were repainted into works of art . Paintings at narrow walkways, walls, and rainbow-colored roof tiles have created a new vitality, a new driving force for Kampung Pelangi village.

With a new look, the rainbow of Kampung Pelangi will surely attract more tourists. According to the Indonesian Construction Association, investment in slum rehabilitation will undoubtedly be reclaimed by the increase of tourists that will make the local service industry thrive. Let's TipsMake.com explore the village of rainbow colors fever in Indonesia !

The appearance of the village of Kampung Pelangi changed completely after being repaired.

The idea of refurbishing this " shabby " village was initiated by Slamet Widodo, a 52-year-old principal.

Slamet Widodo proposed to repaint all 390 houses in Kampung Palengi in vibrant colors.

The proposal of Principal Slamet Widodo was approved and after the government funded $ 22,000 the village began to molt.

Under the mayor's supervision of Hendrar Prihadi, 232 Kampung Pelangi village houses have been painted with unique artwork.

" This project encourages people to participate in improving their own accommodation , " said Mayor Prihadi.

In addition to painting the village, people living here also clean the nearby river.

In front of Kampung Pelangi village there were at least three shanty villages of Indonesia that were refurbished, including the famous village of Jodipan Village.

After wearing a new look, the Kampung Pelangi rainbow-colored village is visited by many international visitors.

The colorful streets of the village become a great place to check out for Instagram followers and the hashtag #kampungpelangi are becoming increasingly popular.

The rapid increase in the number of tourists will help the local economy thrive thanks to the business of souvenirs and food.

Thanks to the power of art, the future of Kampung Pelangi village suddenly became bright and colorful.

See more: Discover breakfast of 23 countries around the world

Having fun!

You finished reading the article "Explore the rainbow-colored village of fever in Indonesia" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.