

Facebook Messenger is jumping from the morning, there is no radical solution

From this morning (April 11), many Facebook Messenger users in Vietnam have feedback on the character of the chat line on this messaging application, which is jumpy and uncontrollable.

From this morning (April 11), many Facebook Messenger users in Vietnam have feedback on the character line chat on this messaging application is "jump" disorderly, uncontrollable. So far, this situation is still happening and no solutions have been overcome thoroughly.

This error only affects the Messenger window feature on the regular computer Facebook version, not on the Messenger mobile application or the private messenger interface website.

When users type a message, the characters on the unfinished chat line will be disordered, causing discomfort to the user. In order to send the message correctly, the user must delete the text, correct the chat line that was dancing patiently. However, after correcting and sending the message correctly, the error continues to appear.

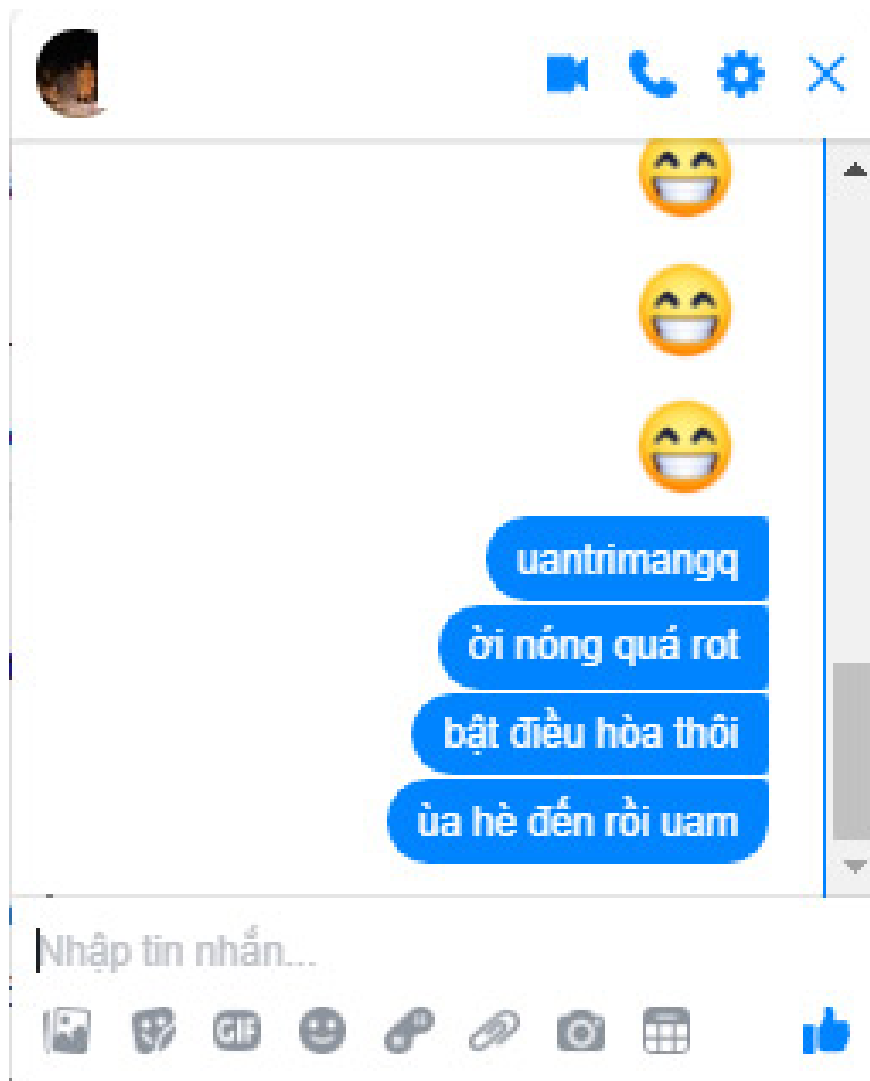

uantrimangq

ời nóng quá rot

d

mở

Currently, there is no solution to fix this problem. To avoid being affected, users are forced to temporarily use separate Messenger.com interfaces, or use an app on a mobile platform.

You finished reading the article "Facebook Messenger is jumping from the morning, there is no radical solution" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.