If you look only on the outside, you will think this laptop is a luxury bag. The machine is stylized with diagonal diagonal lines on the shell and symbol B logo of Bentley automaker.

The metal used in the machine is used from the materials used to manufacture the car's door pull.

It runs on Microsoft Vista operating system and 64-bit processor. Some of the other specifications of the device include a 160 GB hard drive and 12 shortcut keys for common functions.

It is expected that the machine will be distributed in the market through the famous Selfridges retail system in the UK. And if you want to become the owner of this fashion laptop, prepare yourself for about 19,943 USD.
