

FIFA 21 and predictions about changing OVR, Messi or Ronaldo topped the table?

Ronaldo moved to play in the Anpenine region, where the Serie A once dominated the world through a series of European cups but that was a few decades ago.

Messi no longer had a familiar competitor to motivate, so his form also became in a confusing way. The two most prominent faces of football in the past decade began to show signs of fatigue and deterioration in age. FIFA 21 may be delayed to gamers up to 6 weeks due to objective reasons brought by the Covid-19 epidemic , but during that period of time there will be great fluctuations that make people surprised. Whether in FIFA 21 released later this year, are any young strikers threatening the top OVR position that they have held for many years? Let's try to learn about the indexes that players can change in this version!

FIFA 21 Wonderkid: 7 young talents to sign if you want to be a Career Mode boss

It is more than half a year before the launch of FIFA 21, but it is now possible for these young players to be targeted if they want to be the Career Mode boss.

Predict the players with the highest OVR FIFA 21

Lionel Messi (OVR 93): Despite the bad performance in recent times, with the controversy surrounding the Argentine's future, but at least in FIFA 21 Messi is probably still for the index. OVR is up to 93. Last year he won his long-time rival with just one point difference, unless Ronaldo can help Juventus to do something as outstanding as the UEFA Champion League for example, the rest is very It is difficult for the reputation of the Old Lady to surpass the Nou Camp team. With Barca and Real disguised as a league after Atletico Madrid suddenly lost their breath when changing the squad, this year is another year that Messi scooped up individual awards, regardless of the club's performance. .

Cristiano Ronaldo (OVR 92): For many years, Messi and Ronaldo fought for the top spot which indirectly created the most interesting and longest competition in football history when it was more than a decade ago. whoever they turn takes gold balls or yellow shoes. Ronaldo may be outraged by the way Florentino Perez treats the gods, but choosing the Anpenine peninsula as the next landing place will make him lose significant points when selecting the best player in the world. Juventus is very good, but La Liga at least has a trio battle between Real, Barca and Atletico (this year does not count), and Serie has been Juve's game for so many years. Therefore, as mentioned above, unless he can help the Old Lady of Turin to win the Champions League, otherwise, he will lose one step to Messi.

Kevin De Bruyne (OVR 92): As the City's creation king, as well as the Premier League in recent seasons, Kevin De Bruyne is considered one of the best players in the world. The passing skills of the Belgian star are also extremely diverse, from short passes, long passes, slots, to passes that predict the steps of the team. That's great, but De Bruyne insists he could be even better if he played alongside Cristiano Ronaldo. Perhaps these are polite words because Ronaldo is difficult to adapt physically to the English Premier when he is 35 years old, and De Bruyne also can not transfer to Juve, the team has not won a Champion League title for a long time.

Neymar (OVR 92): The Brazilian player is a typical sentence of many talented people when from Pele to Zico all claim that he has the quality to become a football king, but for reasons other than his expertise, it is difficult to achieve to the level that our predecessors expected. The activity was not disciplined, not focused on expertise, even when he was bored as a double for Messi in Spain, he immediately chose a team in the low-lying area of ?? professional football. Paris Saint-Germain may be the boss of Ligue 1 but on the European stage they are nothing when even the middle-class teams in the Champions League can bully if the performance is high enough.

Virgil van Dijk (OVR 91): According to various rumors Liverpool's rock is the main target of Juventus's transfer in the summer of 2020. If the deal is successful, Van Dijk will become the most expensive center-back. World football history. The current owner is MU rookie Harry Maguire, who moved to Old Trafford for £ 85 million last summer.

The wonderkid prediction has the best FIFA 21 index

Erling Braut Haaland (OVR 81): Halaand shone when he was playing for RB Salzburg but the Norwegian player only became blinding when he signed with Dortmund last year. Rejecting many attractive offers from MU or Chelsea, this striker has fired continuously since moving to Germany and raising his scoring record to 40 after only 33 matches! Halaand has all the qualities to become a top striker in the world such as tall, fast, strong and always dangerous in front of goal. With a potential of 90 in Career Mode, Haaland is a perfect fit to become one of the future stars of FIFA 21.

Vinicius Jr. (OVR 80): Real can be fed on the Champions League by Man City but no one can deny the bright spot that Vinicius, Jr. created in that match. The Brazilian players are very skillful and Vinicius, Jr. the same, but when it comes to showing the speed and finesse in the fast-paced out-of-bounds, this young star has never let fans down. It is no coincidence that the NSX at EA Sports rated Vinicius, Jr. to 92 potential points in Career Mode.

Alphonso Davies (OVR 80): The young Canadian star turned down an attractive offer from Chelsea to stay in competition for a position as a left-back for the Gray Lobster. Even in the match against the Blues himself, Davies also caused Reece James to lose his heart because of the rapid climbing phase of himself. In FIFA 20, Alphonso Davies is only assessed the overall index of 72 points but promises to advance strongly in FIFA 21 when owning a predictive evaluation score of 80.

And predict the children of the wind god

Kylian Mbappe (OVR 89): If you want to know how fast Mbappe is, you can ask the Croatian defenders that it will be clear because at the final in 2018, many times the goodies of the checkerboard were going crazy speed. of young French players abused. Dechampes' France match is actually not complicated, every Pogba with the ball will cleverly select the opportunity to drop behind the Croatian defender to Mbappe to start racing F1 formula. The work was well known but in the end, Croatia still lost because Mbappe was so fast that they could not accompany.

Adama Traore (OVR 82): Had to leave Barca in boredom, but Wolves striker Adama Traore is shining and becoming a nightmare for many crafts in the English Premier League. Traore's physique is more like a football player than a football player, with a muscular upper body. It is no coincidence that after seeing Traore's performance this season, many FIFA players have called EA Sports producer to adjust his fitness level at 75, which is losing to Man Marcus's Rashford. Utd. But big does not mean slow because his full speed phase phase always makes every defender headache.

Achraf Hakimi (OVR 82): Leaving the Bernabeu as a European champion is always difficult for all, even Cristiano Ronaldo cannot get used to losing the position of the Best Player in the world. world when abandoning this land. But with Achraf Hakimi, everything turned out well both as a player and as an adult. He started building his reputation at Borussia Dortmund as one of the best defenders in the world at the moment.

You finished reading the article "FIFA 21 and predictions about changing OVR, Messi or Ronaldo topped the table?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.