

Flappy Bird author reveals new games on Twitter

Yesterday, the author of the game Flappy Bird Nguyen Ha Dong, just revealed that he will release a new version of Flappy Bird in August.

Yesterday, the author of the game Flappy Bird Nguyen Ha Dong, just revealed that he will release a new version of Flappy Bird in August.

Today, it seems he is eager to " show off " another game. A screenshot of the game has been uploaded to the East by Twitter as we can see below.

There is not much information about the game being revealed, except what we see from . screenshot. A helmeted character is jumping over a small slot to enter somewhere - looks like a building. It can be said that this is no different way to play with Flappy Bird. According to the Polygon site, Nguyen Ha Dong described this game as " someone jumping from building to building ".

The move of Ha Dong is quite surprising. Just yesterday he just announced to bring Flappy Bird back in August . However, in the Tweet today, Dong said that he wanted people to "forget Flappy Bird " because he was "making a new game ". So it is likely that the new game that East revealed today will be released before the "Crazy Bird " version 2 is released.

You finished reading the article "Flappy Bird author reveals new games on Twitter" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
