

Funny caption of hackers spreading WannaCry malicious code

The hacker who spreads the most dangerous virus in 2017 also tries to make a joke in his ransom notice with a joke.

Although it has just appeared, the WannaCry malware has become a dangerous threat to all network users worldwide, including Vietnam.

When your computer clicks on this infected WannaCry link, it will make it impossible for the computer to access the file or the data on the computer, and the information box will appear on the computer screen. Users must pay a virtual money within 3 days to retrieve those files and data. But you have noticed that, in the announcement of the hacker money to spread this WannaCry malware, there is a very funny and very mindful commentary for the poor who do not have enough money to pay.

1. How to remove / fix ransomware WannaCry
2. How to handle the emergency WannaCry malicious code from the National Information Security Department

" We will have free events for users who are too poor to pay for 6 months ."

This may indicate that this hacker is a rather funny person, joking. However, stealing will still be severely punished by law, this is an act that is harmful to the community, and those who intentionally distribute WannaCry malicious code in Vietnam may consider it under the Criminal Code. This action can be condemned with a fine of 200 million VND, up to a sentence of 12 years.

Currently the authorities have not yet found out which guys (or gangs) have deliberately spread this dangerous virus. However, we do not need to be too pessimistic, worried because with the development of technology and the participation of many authorities, this incident will certainly soon find the perpetrator to endanger the entire network. this bridge.
