

Genshin Impact 2.4: Top 4 reasons to accumulate Primeval Stones for Shenhe

Genshin Impact 2.4 has been officially released and gamers are facing the opportunity to own Shenhe - a brand new 5-star Ice-type female character.

Genshin Impact 2.4 was officially released on January 5, and the gaming community is very excited with the latest banner of Shenhe, Yun Jin along with Chongyun and Ningguang. And you won't want to pass up this opportunity to get the latest 5 Ice Star "waifu" for the following reasons:

Shenhe has a huge AOE

Shenhe can cover the battlefield with his Cold Rage Skill and allows gamers to take down multiple enemies at once. Besides, moving in this damage area also increases Shenhe's power significantly.

Shenhe has many kinds of charms

Although Shenhe's position in the lineup may not be a DPS that deals direct damage, Shenhe's combat ability is also not average.

The reason is because Shenhe's scalability is relatively good, especially Elemental Skills. This skill also decreases with Shenhe's attacks and will peak due to her built-in attack %.

Shenhe might be the best Ice-based buffer right now

Shenhe will pair well with any Genshin Impact Ice-type character in the lineup thanks to his elemental power buffs.

Shenhe can increase Ice-type damage by up to 15% while allies are within range of her Rage Skill and can also increase damage for various attack types by 15% thanks to her passive.

You finished reading the article "Genshin Impact 2.4: Top 4 reasons to accumulate Primeval Stones for Shenhe" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.