

Genshin Impact: Tips to move quickly without teleporting

Using teletransportation waypoints is the best way to help Genshin Impact players move faster across the vast Teyvat map.

But gamers can also apply some tips to move quickly and get to the targeted locations when it is far from the waypoints and the Seven Idols. Let's learn the most useful tips to move faster in Genshin Impact.

Tips for moving quickly in Genshin Impact without teleporting

Increase character's endurance

When using the Dash button to increase movement speed in Genshin Impact, the character will consume HP. The player can increase the Stamina ability by upgrading the level of the Seven Idols.

With more Stamina, the player can use the Dash button more times to move quickly in Genshin Impact. In addition, the character can also swim and climb a longer distance and ensure safety with a larger amount of Stamina.

Genshin Impact players can also reduce Stamina consumption by eating Stamina Boosting Dish. It is useful when the character is in a large body of water or in the air.

Build a discovery team

Some characters in Genshin Impact have better passive talents for world exploration. Kamisato Ayaka and Mona are the two best characters to move around in this game. The Alternate Sprints ability allows them to move faster than other characters.

In addition, Kaeya has a higher sprint speed, and will be faster when gamers use the Dash button. Besides, people should use tall characters like Diluc, Childe, Lisa, Jean, etc. to probe because they run faster than thaaso characters like Diona and Qiqi.

Furthermore, the characters' skills and elements in Genshin Impact also affect their movement speed. For example, Xiao's elemental skill allows to dash forward 2 times in front of CD on the ground or in the air.

Additionally, Diona's passive talent increases her speed while reducing her Stamina consumption while using the Dash button.

Players can reduce Stamina consumption and increase movement speed by combining two Anemo characters in their team.

Use discovery utilities

Genshin Impact players can also use some useful gadgets to move quickly. Check out all the tools available to increase the character's movement speed in this game.

Red feather fan

Players can get from Inazuma Reputation's rewards. When you reach level 5, you will receive this utility. This tool increases the character's dash speed by 30% for 30 seconds before the 100 second CD. Remember that gamers cannot use the Red Feather Fan before flying because it cannot be used in the air.

Mobile Waypoint Widget

Moving Reference Points can be at Mondstadt's Reputation Level 6. It acts like a temporary teleportation reference point and expires in 7 days. The player will place a waypoint at his current location to return to later. It is very useful when you want to move to the same place many times.

Those are the best tips to teleport faster in Genshin Impact. It helps gamers explore Teyvat and complete tasks faster when in a hurry.

You finished reading the article "Genshin Impact: Tips to move quickly without teleporting" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

