

Genshin Impact: Top 4 potential characters but always rejected by gamers

Genshin Impact has a relatively massive character system and all can shine if used correctly by gamers.

Albedo

The latest version of Genshin Impact 2.3 has helped Albedo regain his footing through a series of new events at Long Tich Tuyet Son - one of the most engaging and exciting events of the many recent updates.

However, before that, Albedo was overwhelmed by the unique 5-star cast of characters released during the 12 months since Genshin Impact 1.2. Besides, the Nham system was also not a meta-elementary in the past and this has made Albedo less popular than other 5-star characters of the system.

If built in the right way, Albedo will become an extremely effective character. And with the Nham system becoming the new meta from version 2.3, Albedo will surely shine even more in the near future.

Beidou

Beidou is a 4-star Lightning-type character, possessing an extremely powerful counter attack and excelling in both DPS and SP roles. However, the role of Lightning in Genshin Impact is being underestimated, inadvertently making Beidou rarely used.

In the SP position, gamers will often prioritize Raiden Shogun, Fischl or Sara. Besides, Raiden Shogun and Keqing are the 2 lightning-type characters used for the most DPS role. And the fact that Beidou is right in the middle of the line between DPS and SP has made players hesitant to build Beidou even though she is still a character with a lot of potential.

Lisa

Lisa is one of the free characters that gamers are given in the early stages of Genshin Impact along with Kaeya, Amber and Noelle. But unlike Noelle or Amber, Lisa is not used by many players when climbing to higher levels.

Lisa was "rejected" because most people assumed that a free character early game would not have enough power to go further in the future. However, Lisa is an easy character to use and can be combined with Xinyan or Thoma to create the elemental reaction "Overload". The effect after building properly will even make many people amazed.

Kaeya

Kaeya is also a free character like Lisa and is also "underrated" similarly to Lisa. That is why when climbing to higher levels, gamers will often tend to abandon this potential character.

In fact, Kaeya is an Ice-type character that is very friendly and useful to most players. Kaeya's basic attack is also quite high and fully qualified to take on the DPS position. And when reaching the 6th ray of life, Kaeya will become a real monster.
