

Google can develop a youtube video watch page for children

YouTube now reaches more than 6 billion hours of video viewing per month, confirming its leading position in video sharing and distribution. Not only that, it also defeated the world's largest social network Facebook on social media for teenagers.

YouTube now reaches more than 6 billion hours of video viewing per month, confirming its leading position in video sharing and distribution. Not only that, it also defeated the world's largest social network Facebook on social media for teenagers.

In the future, Google will focus on building content for children to further develop this strength.

Currently, many sources believe that YouTube is developing a personal website that is friendly to children under 10 years old. This website will apply the best safety filters to ensure only age-appropriate content appears, ensuring a safe browsing experience.

However, any filter cannot guarantee 100% content safety, especially for YouTube with lots of videos uploaded daily. So to develop a website for children, Google will face many difficult problems in the future.

You finished reading the article "Google can develop a youtube video watch page for children" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
