

Google Photos helps create short films from emotional photos to celebrate Valentine's Day

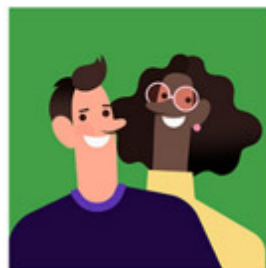

New Google gives Google Photos a new feature, allowing users to create short videos from photos on the upcoming Valentine's Day (or many other topics) on the web and on the app.

New Google gives Google Photos a new feature, allowing users to create short videos from photos on the upcoming Valentine's Day (or many other topics) on the web and on the app.

To create a short movie, users only need to access the Assistant -> select a specific topic about people (or pets). The rest of the work, Google's algorithm will take care of selecting the relevant photos, setting the soundtrack, and combining them all together. After the movie creation process is complete, if you are not completely satisfied with the result of the video, you can edit it.

Selfie Movie

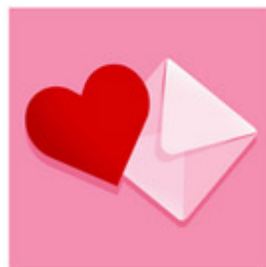

Smiles of 2017

Mother's Day Movie

Father's Day Movie

Valentine's Day Movie

In Loving Memory

The feature to create short movies from emotional photos to celebrate Valentine's Day is available in most countries for web browsers and both Android and iOS operating systems.

To use the new feature, visit the following link and update.

1. Google Photos for Android.
2. Google Photos for iOS.

See more:

1. What can Google Photos Assistant do for you?
2. 18 tips to help you master Google Photos
3. Instructions on how to put Google Photos GIF images on Instagram on Android and Android
4. Instructions for using Google Photos on Windows 10

You finished reading the article "Google Photos helps create short films from emotional photos to celebrate Valentine's Day" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.