

Google Translate has 'spoken' Vietnamese

Yesterday (December 4), Google just announced the release of a complete package of translation tools from Vietnamese into 34 languages ??and vice versa here.

Yesterday (December 4), Google just announced the release of a complete package of translation tools from Vietnamese into 34 languages ??and vice versa here. Vietnamese users around the world can search and view foreign language websites in their native language with Google Translate translation service.

Website in Vietnamese

With these free tools, Vietnamese users can translate specific paragraphs or web pages into Vietnamese or vice versa. They can also use Vietnamese keywords to search for websites published in 34 languages ??and the results will be automatically translated back into Vietnamese. In addition, Google is implementing a website translation tool that helps Vietnamese website owners to instantly translate their website into 34 different languages.

Become a Chinese website.

' At Google, we believe the Internet allows people to access the world's information - all the information worldwide, regardless of language. Introducing Google Translate in Vietnam today helps millions of Vietnamese-speaking Internet users around the world find and access more website content in their native language , 'said Derek Callow, Director. Southeast Asia Marketing Manager speaks.

Google Translate also allows Internet users to contribute to improving translation results from foreign languages ??into Vietnamese and vice versa. When users encounter an incorrect translation, the system has a tool that allows them to propose a better translation than the automatic translation from the machine.

The current Google Translate supports the following languages: Arabic, Bulgarian, Catalan, Chinese, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, Filipino, Finnish, French, German, Greek , Jewish, Indian, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latvian, Latvian, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Serbian, Slovak, Slovenian, Spanish, Swedish, Ukrainian and Vietnamese.

How to translate from English to Vietnamese

American movie fans can update activities and information about their favorite movie stars with web searches. Please copy and paste the original foreign content into the ' Original text ' box at <http://translate.google.com> and select the Vietnamese language for which you want to translate the text.

Google can automatically detect the text language just pasted into the box. Simple selection of " Language detection " in the drop-down menu on the left.

To translate the entire content of a website, such as a Vietnamese-speaking soccer fan who wants to update all the latest news from the Spanish championship, just paste the Spanish website URL. That box enters the " Translate website " box and selects the Vietnamese language you want to translate, Less than a second, Google can analyze the content and translate it into Vietnamese or any other language of the 34 languages ??list pre-installed language.

Translate and expand search scope

For example, a Vietnamese-language student learning fashion wants to study French fashion to find inspiration about haute couture (high fashion). If searching in Vietnamese, the girl will get very little information, because most of the information on this topic is usually in French. But what if she received the French fashion web results in French, then translated into Vietnamese for me?

Google Translate can help solve situations like this. All you need to do is select the ' Translate Search ' tab, type 'fashion' in the dialog box, select 'French' from the menu. In just a few moments, Google decodes the request, searches the web and translates the search results into Vietnamese. Click on any result to see the site has been translated.

Vietnamese website turns into a foreign language web

Google's website translation tool can help websites with Vietnamese content become more accessible to users around the world - all by adding a single line of HTML code to this website. For example, in the context of businesses from around the world seeking business opportunities in Vietnam, the Google Translation tool helps your Vietnamese website translated into 34 languages ??with just one click, Expand your business opportunities worldwide.

The website translation tool is completely free and easy to embed in your website. Click on the 'Tools' tab on the Google Translate homepage, select Vietnamese as your website language, then cut the HTML code automatically written and paste it into your website.

Now, when people visit your Vietnamese website, they can automatically translate the website into one of 34 languages ??by selecting from the drop-down menu on the embedded tool. Users will then be taken to an automatic translation of your website.

You finished reading the article "Google Translate has 'spoken' Vietnamese" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.