Guide to play Support in Wild Rift League. Support is a great addition to a team, but it doesn't always work.

To help you play this position well, there is a little 'Tip' about playing Support in League of Legends: Wild Rift. Please refer!

Role of Support

The primary role of a Support is to help the Defenders develop effectively. That means you will always have to protect the ADC, help them farm stably, avoid being killed and even eat the enemy. You will need to do things like heal, shield the ADC, even take out your body to shield the opponent's attacks.

1. Support has to ward around key areas of the map to detect the enemy jungler's location and roam when possible.
2. Support should actively roam to support teammates other than AD carry.
3. Should choose generals that are able to provide benefits, shields, heal, . or have the ability to shield and control.
4. Support should not farm soldiers.

Those are the basic tasks that Support players need to ensure.

Play Support in Wild Rift

Moreover, you can move wide on the map to support your teammates when the opportunity arises. In low-skilled matches, the Support is almost exclusively active in one lane. If you learn to move at the right time, you can build massive power for both mid, bot, and even help the jungler control the dragon.

Map for Support cho

The roster for Support isn't too heavy-handed, sometimes it's up to you to choose. You may want to buy items like Burning Incense for Janna and Sona to increase the Attack Speed ??of allies receiving your shield. There are some items that will benefit teammates, always consider them.

Furthermore, as Support with limited economic resources, always keep an eye on the price. Never buy overpriced items that don't have much effect on the team, because they will make you build slower than your opponent.

Support is not a position that relies too much on Gold, they become useful by helping teammates survive and shine. Vision is Support's number one priority, use tactical vision to judge your opponents, help all your teammates to victory.
