

Hago: How to pair only with men or women to play games

With the guide to pair with just one gender in Hago, you'll find only men or women in the pairing section and challenge them.

As you know, the Hago app provides users with minigames to pair and challenge other players against them. Each player will be randomly selected on the gender and age, along with some information written on the side.

But sometimes you want to find only the same or different players of your gender, for example if you are male and just want to look for a woman, or how you look for a male or a male to look for a male or female, then you will do it. Hago's default settings will find all players regardless of gender or gender.

If you just want to find the opposite gender, you can refer to the tips below to connect only with heterosexual players on Hago.

However, you need to keep in mind because there are likely to be male players in the game, but in the game, you choose gender as a female to make it easy to pair with other players. So if you want to identify yourself as male or female, you can chat with that person to confirm.
