

Here are 7 Google YouTube apps and their effects

Room when you get lost in the YouTube world because there are so many different versions with different functions.

YouTube has just launched a new music service called YouTube Music. In fact, it is not completely new because YouTube already has an application called YouTube Music. But now Google has really begun to focus on this service.

1. Google introduced YouTube Music and YouTube Premium

New YouTube Music brings many new features such as self-created playlists, paid $ 10 / month versions of ads and many other features such as listening to offline or listening in the background. The market will also be expanded, not just 5 countries as before.

As can be seen, YouTube is ready to confront directly with Spotify and Apple Music.

YouTube's family has a lot of members

12 years after being acquired by Google, YouTube now has a new face that is hard to recognize compared to the old days. In the development journey, YouTube gradually separated into many separate products, targeting different objects and purposes. This is a list of all YouTube products and description about them.

YouTube

This is the main YouTube application that you still know and use daily with the content repository of all topics.

YouTube Music

Born in 2015, YouTube Music focuses on music. This service is only available in the US, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico and South Korea. In the future, it will expand to other markets such as Canada, England, Austria, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Norway, Russia, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

YouTube Music is quite similar to Google Play Music application and perhaps in the future it will be a replacement. Currently both still exist in parallel.

YouTube Go

Google launched the offline YouTube Go app in India last year as a beta and officially revealed 130 markets in the past few months. The application is only available on Android, redesigned from the beginning, towards places with poor Internet and therefore, not very popular in markets like the US.

YouTube Gaming

Launched in 2015, this app is the place to watch other gamers play games or play their own games.

YouTube VR

Launching the 2016 Daydream View VR headset, Google launched the YouTube VR application to bring a virtual reality experience to YouTube videos.

YouTube Studio

Formerly known as Creator Studio, YouTube Studio was released more and more widely this year after the beta period. The application has a suitable interface for those who specialize in creating content, managing their videos and channels, in addition to tracking parameters, viewers' comments, etc.

Currently, it is the official YouTube application, showing that Google is trying to create a unified ecosystem, targeting many users in the YouTube community.
