

Historical events occurring on March 15 'gloomy' make many people abstain

Historically, there are many scary events happening on March 15 that many people are afraid of war, epidemic, natural disasters ... Is it a coincidence or a hidden mystery? somehow.

Historically, there are many scary events happening on March 15 that many people are afraid of war, epidemic, natural disasters . Is it a coincidence or a hidden mystery? somehow.

The assassination of Gaius Julius Caesar

On March 15, 98 - 44 BC was marked as a famous day by Gaius Julius Caesar, a military and political leader of the Roman Empire, assassinated. How many people had to die because of the bloody civil war for power after the event.

According to the record, a prophet warned Caesar about his death at the end of March. And that came true.

In the last days of March, Caesar was still in peace, believing that the prophecy did not fulfill and jokingly said: "The last days of March have arrived."

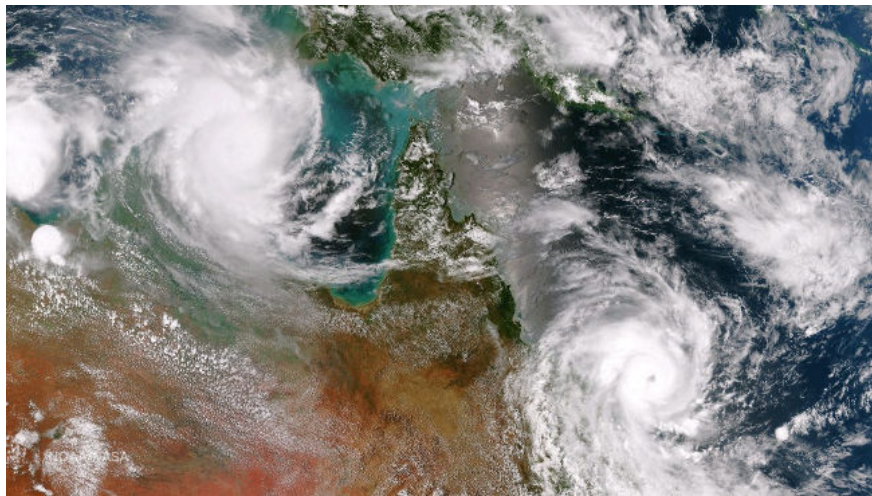

However, when attending the Senate meeting, Caesar was stabbed to death by being betrayed by a close friend, with about 60 people involved in his death.

South British raid

On March 15, 1360, during the war between Britain and France (1337-1453) to fight for territory and the throne of France, a group of French soldiers carried out robberies, rape and murder. 48 hours in southern England.

Terrible storm

On March 15, 1889, a storm passed through Apia, Samoa, sank six warships, killing 200 sailors, and severely affecting transportation.

Emperor Nicholas II abdicated

On March 15, 1917, Emperor Nicholas II abdicated, this event marked the end of the long feudal regime of Russia. After signing the abdication papers, he and his family were arrested and executed a year later.

Germany occupied Czechoslovakia

On March 15, 1939, the Nazi army occupied Czechoslovakia.

Historical snowstorm

On March 15, 1941, a sudden snowstorm swept across the northern Great Plains, killing at least six people in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and 60 dead in North Dakota, Minnesota.

Ozone layer

On March 15, 1988, NASA published a report on the serious decline of the ozone layer in the Northern Hemisphere three times faster than expected.

SARS epidemic

On March 15, 2003, the World Health Organization issued a global warning about a mysterious respiratory disease affecting human health in Vietnam, China, Canda and Singapore. Later, this disease is called severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS).

1. The unbelievable double-face cases in history
2. 10 classic historical photos strangle human hearts

You finished reading the article "Historical events occurring on March 15 'gloomy' make many people abstain" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.