

How about using a stethoscope to listen to music? Ask this young man!

Just open the baby speaker a bit, the amplifying effect of the medical stethoscope will take care of the rest.

The Reddit community is spreading a humorous video that makes everyone laugh, and after watching it, admire the creativity of the serious guy in the video.

The main character in this video is a young man sitting on a train. Everything was normal until he calmly pulled out a stethoscope to listen to music.

It seems that this guy has forgotten the headphones at home and to meet the needs of listening to music that has been unbearable, he takes out the stethoscope to support. Just open the baby speaker a bit, the amplifying effect of the medical stethoscope will take care of the rest.

Surely the serious level of the guy in the video must be at the ultimate level to calmly think of such an extraordinary method. Another plus point for this guy is the polite, civilized consciousness at the train, which is a public place should not open the loudspeaker loud enough to listen to avoid disturbing others.