

How to access two or more emails simultaneously on a computer.

Many people need to log into multiple email accounts simultaneously to work efficiently. Constantly logging out and logging back in wastes a lot of time. Today, Taimienphi will guide you on how to open two or more email accounts at the same time to help you work more smoothly.

Unlike logging into multiple Gmail accounts on the same browser, the issue here is that you need to access multiple different email accounts without logging out of your main account.

Instructions on how to access two or more emails at the same time.

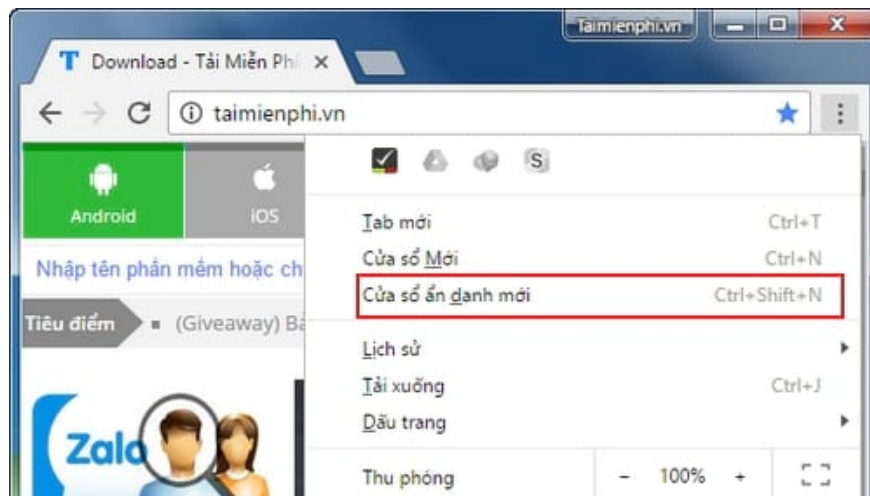

Method 1: Use multiple different browsers.

Each browser stores its own cookies, so the simplest way to log in to multiple email accounts simultaneously is to use different browsers.

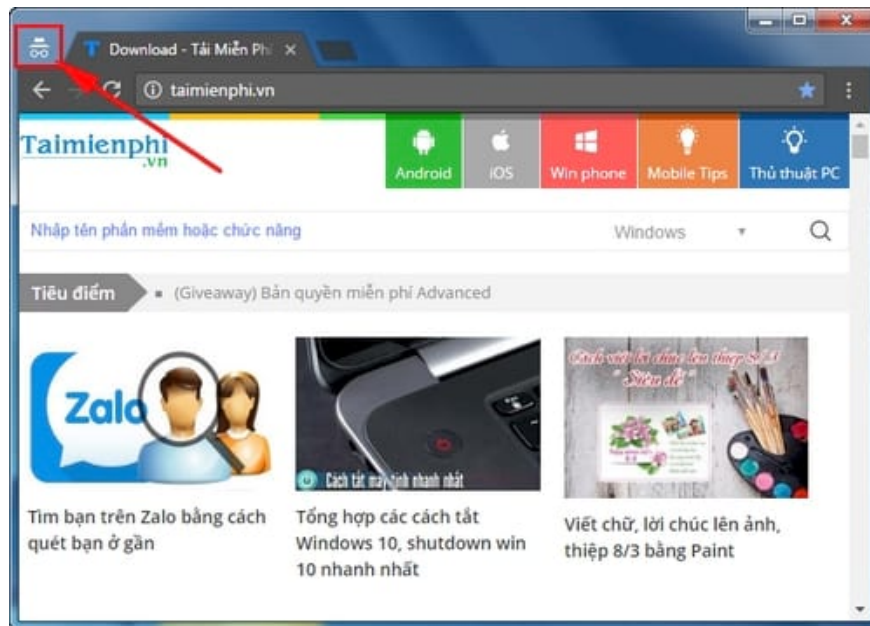

Method 2: Use Private mode on your browser.

If you only want to use one browser, you can enable Private Browsing or Incognito mode. This mode uses new cookies, separate from the current cookies, and automatically deletes them when you close the window.

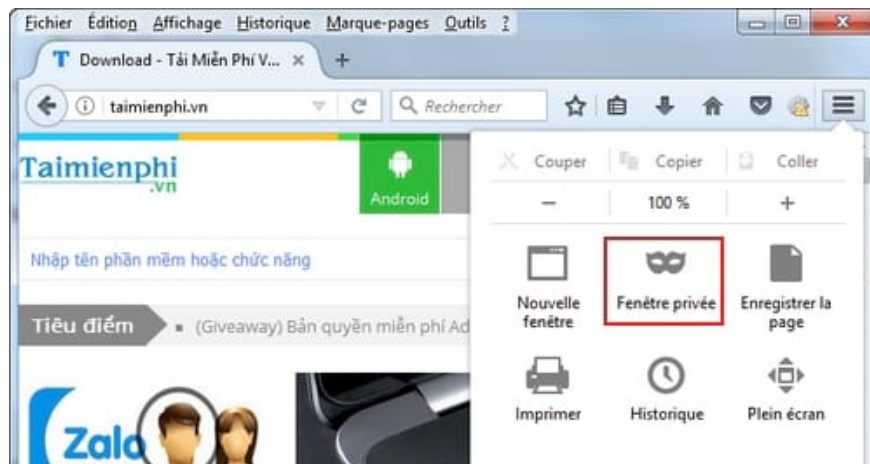

To open incognito mode in Google Chrome or C?c C?c, click the menu icon (three horizontal lines) in the upper right corner, select New Incognito Window , or use the shortcut Ctrl + Shift + N.

After enabling incognito mode, you will see an interface with the distinctive glasses and hat icon.

On Firefox and Microsoft Edge, click the menu (three horizontal lines) in the upper right corner, select Start Private Browsing with the mask icon, or use the shortcut Ctrl + Shift + P.

After enabling incognito mode, the user interface will look like the image below.

The above is a guide on how to log in to multiple email accounts simultaneously on a web browser. After activating incognito mode, you can log in as usual. Hopefully, this trick will help you work more efficiently and enhance email security.

With the Opera browser, you can also use incognito mode to log in and use your email normally. You can refer to our previous article on browsing incognito mode on Opera for more details. Good luck!
