Inherently, password is a security tool for your wifi system. Can you use wifi without a password? The answer is yes! We can completely do this through the Wifi Protected Setup (WPS) feature. The steps are as follows:

Step 1: Click on the Wifi signal icon on the Taskbar. This will display all available Wifi connections.

Step 2: Click on the Wifi icon you want to connect to the network.

Step 3: After selecting the wifi network, you can check the Connect Automatically box so that the computer automatically connects to the network next time.

Step 4: Click Connect. When the laptop asks for a password > On the wifi modem, press and hold the WPS button. Depending on the type of wifi modem, this WPS button may be on the front or a small button on the back. You can use a toothpick or a small ballpoint pen tip to press this button.

Step 5: After pressing the WPS button, you will see the message 'Getting settings from the router' appear on the Wifi network you intend to connect to.
