Method 2 of 2:

Blog with Blogging Apps on your Smart Phone

1.

Access the application market or store on your smart phone. The name of your application source will vary depending on the type of smart phone you use. For example, if you use an iPhone, you can access applications from the Apple iPhone App Store.

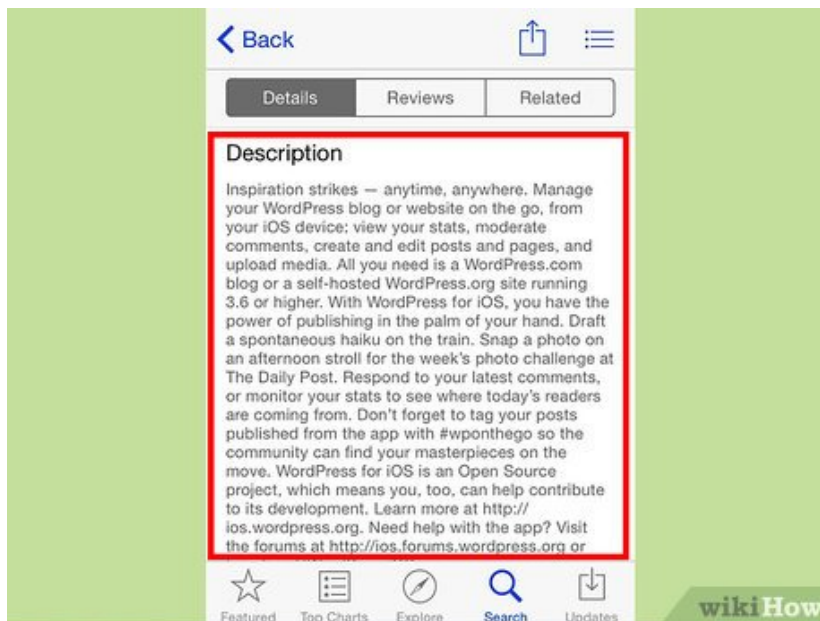

2.

Search for an application with the same title as your blogging platform. For example, if you blog on WordPress, enter "WordPress" into the search field to locate applications that manage your WordPress blog.

1. Some applications are versatile and can be used to manage a number of blogging platforms. Examples of such applications are named "iBlogger" and "BlogPress."

3.

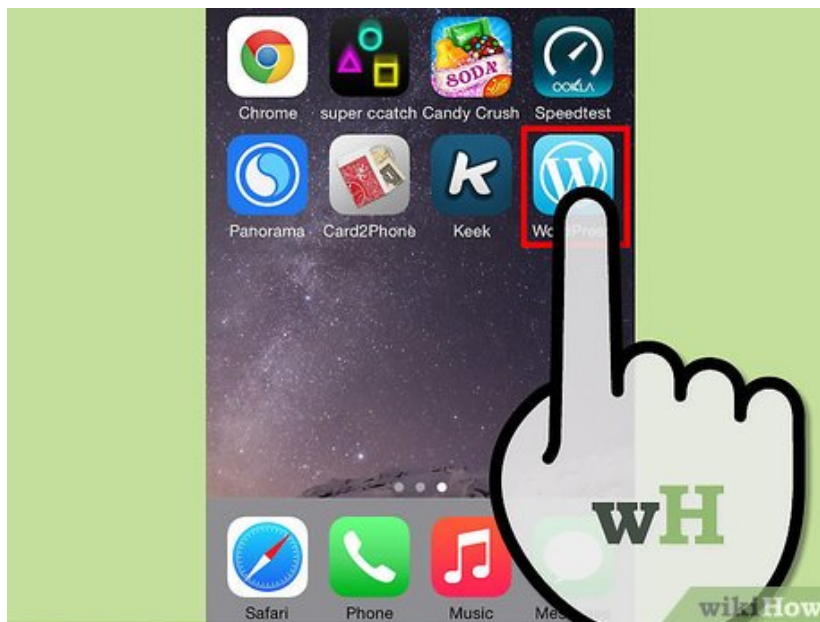

Read and review the description of the application to verify that it contains the features you need. Some applications will allow you to customize photos for your blog posts, whereas other applications may allow you to manage comments made by other users on your blog posts.

4.

Download the blogging application directly to your smart phone. Most blogging applications are free of charge, however, some developers may charge you a fee to download the application.

5.

Blog from your smart phone using the application you downloaded. In most cases, you will be required to open the application on your smart phone, and select the option for writing a new blog post.

1. Consult directly with the developer of your blogging application to obtain further instructions if needed.
