And especially gamers can own hot games when those games sometimes get discounts from 75% to 90% in some cases. That discount is extremely attractive for all gamers, but you still need to do some of the following if you want to spend the most effectively.

Make a list of the games you want to buy now

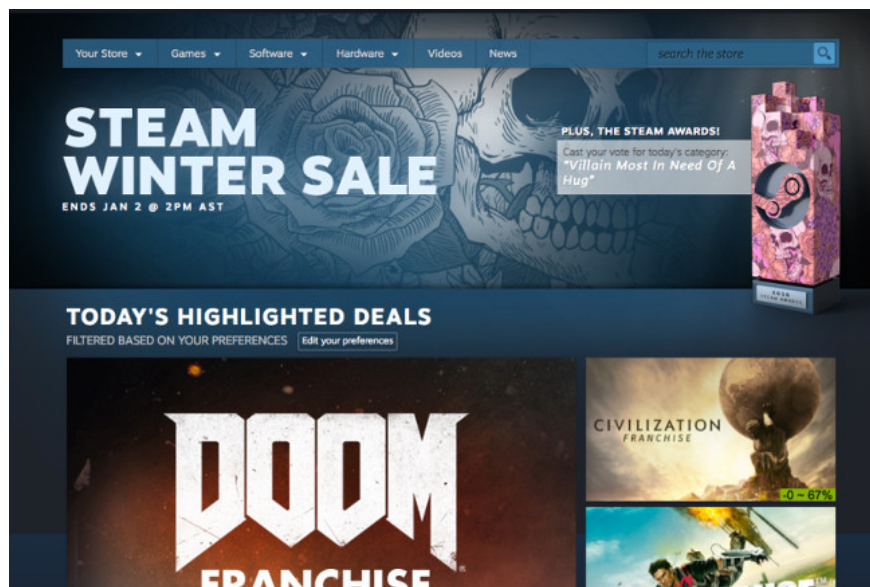

One of Steam's best features is that they will send you an email to announce that the games on the list you want to buy are being discounted. So make yourself a list of games you want to own right now if you don't want to miss the opportunity when the discount comes.

Understand about Steam's discount method

Steam has two discounts:

2. Highlighted Deals : 50% - 75% discount for any game in the week. Each game will be discounted every day until the end of the week.

If, for some reason, you can't buy your favorite game that is being discounted with Highlighted Deals, don't worry, usually discount games that many buyers will return on the last day. same week of discount. Steam used to offer a Flash Sales discount when it would offer a weekly discount for a certain game. However, now there is no longer this type of discount.

Buying a game package is better than buying each game one by one

Buying an entire game package of a game publisher that is being discounted may cost you an amount greater than the amount you intend to spend when buying only one game, but sometimes this is A great bargain you don't realize. If you see a game package from Activision or Eidos that is being discounted, don't hesitate to buy the game right away. Sometimes this will cause you to buy games that you don't want to play, but if you consider them carefully, some games that don't intend to buy will make you feel excited. What is more amazing than owning a series of home-based games that release you love at extremely low prices.

Before planning to buy any game that is being discounted, check to see if the game is in a certain discount package. If so, check what games you will own when you buy the package, if you're lucky, sometimes you can buy a lot of good games for only $ 1 / game.
