

How to change the background color of an image in Paint on Windows 11

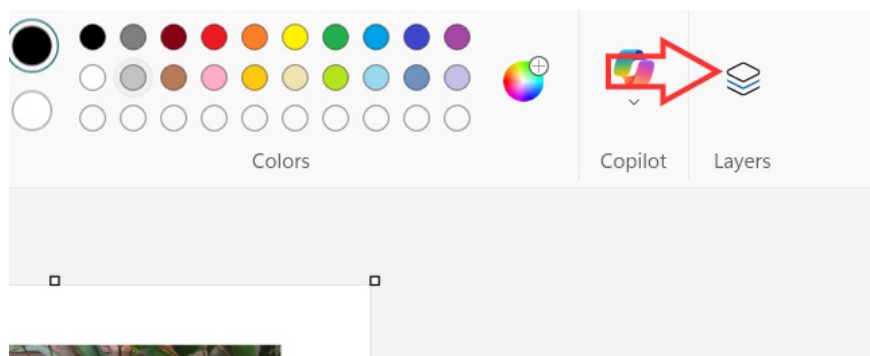

The Paint application, built into Windows 11, now offers the option to customize the background color of images using its Layers feature. This feature is available for Paint version 11.2402.20.0 and later.

The Paint application, built into Windows 11, now offers the option to change the background color of an image using the Layers feature. This feature is available for Paint version 11.2402.20.0 and later. Below are instructions on how to change the background color in Paint on Windows 11.

Instructions on changing the background color of an image in Paint on Windows 11

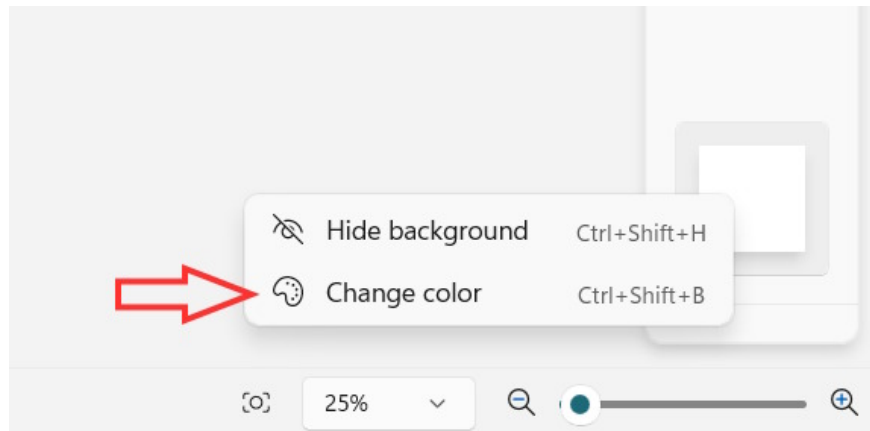

Step 1:

We open the Paint application on the computer, then open the image as usual. Next, we click on the Layers icon as shown below.

Step 2:

Now, on the right side of the screen, you will see an additional layer. Right-click on that layer and select "Change color ." Or, simply double-click on the white layer to change the background color.

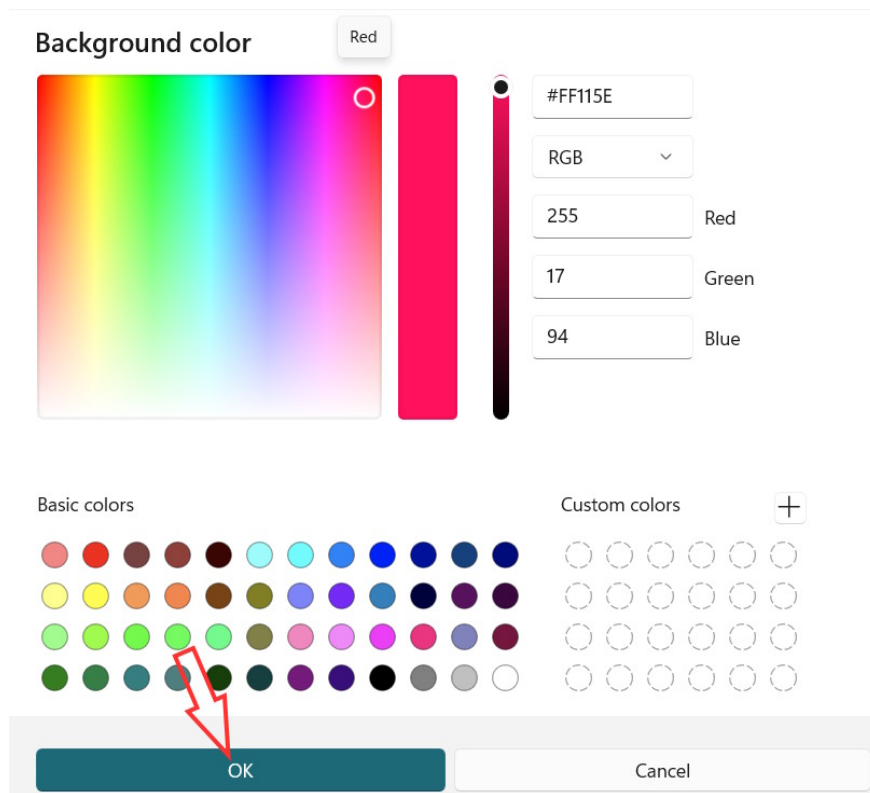

Step 3:

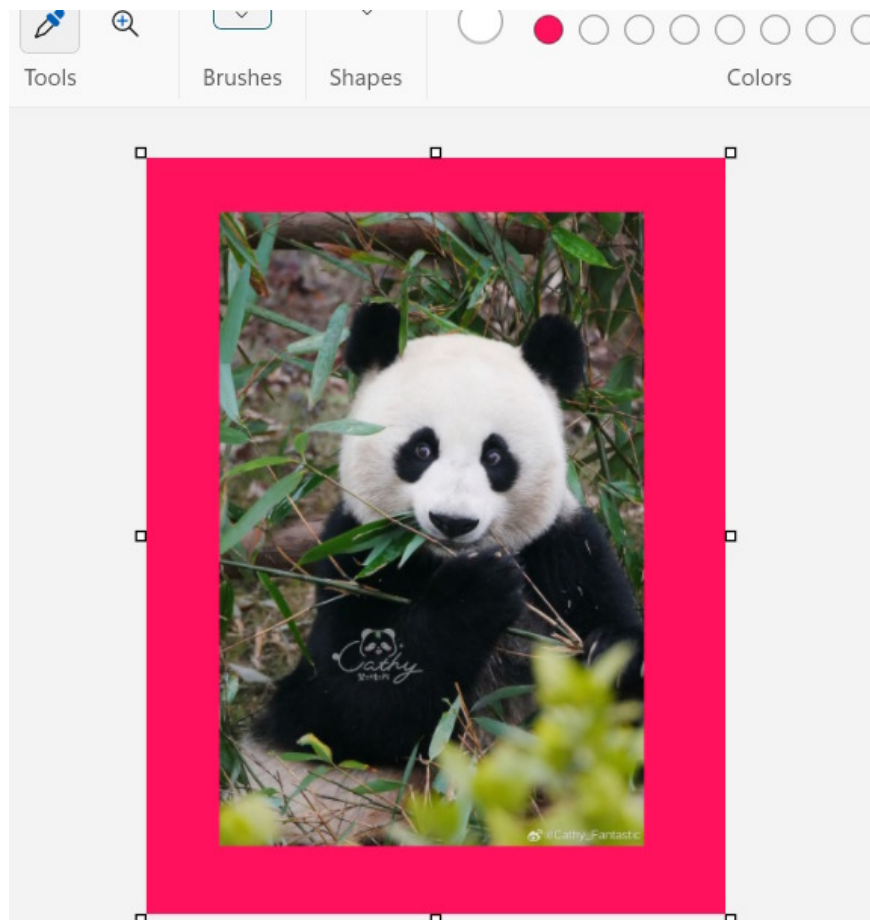

Paint displays an interface that allows you to choose a background color for your image.

We click on the color we want to use for the background, and finally click OK to save this new background color.

The result will be a new background for the image, as shown below.

You finished reading the article "How to change the background color of an image in Paint on Windows 11" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
