

How to check if email is still working?

There is a tool that helps you check if your email is still active or not, which is Reacher. Reacher connects directly to the email server, so the check is very fast and accurate.

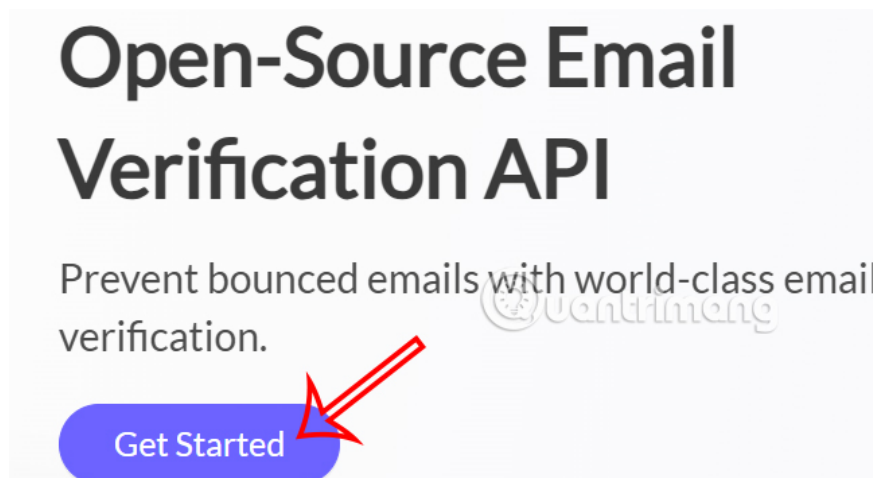

You want to send an email to a friend but haven't contacted for a long time. So is that email still active? There is a tool that helps you check if the email is still active or not, which is Reacher. The Reacher tool connects directly to the email server, so the check is very fast and accurate. In particular, Reacher does not store any email information, so it keeps your personal account secure. Below are instructions for checking if the email is still active or not.

How to check if email is working

Step 1:

First, users access the Reacher website link and click Get Started to use it.

Step 2:

After successfully registering, you will be transferred to the main interface of the Reacher website. First, you need to paste the email you need to check into the Verify an email section and click Verify .

Verify an email (quick & easy 🤖)

Simply enter an email and click 'Verify' to get the results.

Step 3:

You wait for the website to check the active status of the email you are checking. Below will be a notification about that email. If the result is safe as shown below, the email is still active and you can still send emails to it as usual.

If you receive an invalid message, that email is no longer active.

Verify

Congratulations 🎉! We got a result with `is_reachable = safe`, which means the email exists and is safe to send to. The full response is below, check out the documentation to understand all the fields.
