

How to check laptop battery bottles HP, Asus, Dell, Acer, Sony, Lenovo

Checking laptop battery bottles HP, Asus, Dell, Acer, Sony, Lenovo is essential for you to use the battery effectively, to avoid power down when using the battery because the battery bottle phenomenon is unavoidable. Among the software that supports checking computer battery bottles, BatteryCare software is the highest rated.

After a long time of using the laptop for a long time, the battery life is reduced, your laptop battery is no longer stable and inefficient, you will think to check if the laptop battery is bottled or not.

Currently there are many programs that help you check the bottle level of the Laptop Battery as well as see other battery parameters, but most of these software are compact and often secretly installed other software such as antivirus 360, or it could be trojans, viruses, . stealing trackers can hardly know.

In this article, TipsMake introduces to readers BatteryCare software, laptop battery check software is a highly appreciated utility with the ability to save battery power for Laptop and also integrates the function to display battery status in while running through a display.

Step 1: Download and install BatteryCare on your computer. You can download the latest version of BatteryCare here

Link to download BatteryCare for PC here.

After the download is successful, install the program on your computer

Step 2: After successful installation, pay attention to tray icon

Step 3: At the door of Basic Information, display the temperature of the hard drive and the computer chip

Picture 1 of How to check laptop battery bottles HP, Asus, Dell, Acer, Sony, Lenovo

Step 4: The Detailed Information window displays the bottle level of the battery. The Wear Level line announces the bottle level of the battery, if Wear Level: 0% means the battery has not been bottle, Wear Level: 100% means the battery is completely bottle.

Picture 2 of How to check laptop battery bottles HP, Asus, Dell, Acer, Sony, Lenovo

Above, we have just instructed you to use BatteryCare software to check laptop battery bottles. In addition, according to Taimienphi's experience, when you use both the battery and the source in parallel, the battery bottle will be significantly faster. So you should remove the battery if you do not use a lot to prolong the life of the battery.

When the Laptop battery is bottled, of course the battery life will also be reduced, and if the bottle is too much, the reader should also consider buying another backup battery if the need to use the laptop battery a lot.

In addition, with some devices, the state of not charging the battery into electricity is unavoidable, and if readers are in this situation, the previous article on how to fix the laptop battery charging error is not in power. This will help you to completely solve this problem at home instead of going to a repair center.

You finished reading the article "How to check laptop battery bottles HP, Asus, Dell, Acer, Sony, Lenovo" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.