

How to choose a tent to go camping, picnic, travel

There are many types of camping tents and depending on the number of users you can choose for. The following article will guide you how to choose camping tents to go on a picnic, picnic, travel that best suits your needs.

Camping tents are extremely necessary for those who like to go on a picnic, a picnic or a trip. To choose a tourist tent that is cheap and affordable, rely on the following criteria.

Instructions on how to choose to buy tents for camping, picnics, tourism

Choose a camping tent in size

This is a very important factor when choosing a camping tent. Before buying, you need to determine the number of users to choose a 2-person camping tent, a 4-person camping tent, a 3-5-person camping tent, a 4- to 6-person tent or a 6-8 person tent.

However, when going ph??t people often bring a lot of furniture so you should calculate a little extra to sleep or play more comfortable. For example, if you go 4 people can choose a camping tent for 4 - 6 people for example.

Choose a 1-layer tourist tent or 2-layer tourist tent

Most campgrounds on the market are divided into the following two basic categories: one-layer camping tents and two-layer camping tents.

1-layer camping tent: This tent only has 1 layer and a small open umbrella design at the top of the tent to create aeration. Due to the 1-layer design, the tent is very light weight, easy to move. However, poor water resistance is suitable for dry weather and small rain.

Two-layer camp tent: Interior design and outer layer separated. The inner layer is not water resistant, often designed in the form of curtain fabric, so it is very good against mosquitoes. The outer layer is made of Polyester material which is effective against rain. The tent with 2 layers will withstand better rain and effectively sun protection. However, the drawback is that the weight will be heavy and carry a little inconvenience, causing suffocation when it is sunny.

So before you choose you should rely on the weather and your carrying capacity to choose 1 class or 2 classes.

Choose a tent shape:

Camping tents usually have the following four basic shapes: A-shaped tent, umbrella-shaped tent, dome-shaped tent and walled tent. If you go for a picnic or picnic, it is best to choose A-shaped tent and umbrella-shaped tent. These two types of tents are often better-selling because of their compact design, light weight, ease of installation and removal. The domed tent and walled tent are more bulky, difficult to assemble, so it takes more time and effort.

Choose the tent material

Material tarpaulin tent: To ensure the durability of the tent you should choose tents made of polyester material or waterproof nylon fabric. These two materials are extremely resistant to rain and sun protection to ensure safety when camping.

Material frame tent: Most tents often design aluminum or fiberglass frames. These are 2 very good materials, ensuring the strength and good strength, hard to crack, high elasticity, quick assembly. So when choosing to buy a tent, be sure to consider whether the tent frame is made of these two materials.

Third is the zipper: You should choose to buy a metal zipper tent that is more durable than a plastic zipper. Then try to try again and see if the lock is smooth.

Choose tents according to price

An expensive tent will ensure durability as well as good resistance to rain and wind. However, before buying, you need to determine the need to go more or less. If you go a little or go in a dry season, just choose a camp with a price of less than VND 500,000.

If you often go trekking or traveling in remote areas, buy an expensive tent for longer use. You can choose a camping tent with a selling price of over 1 million.

The above are the most important criteria that you need to consider in order to find the best travel tent for yourself.

Wishing you all fun and convenient trips!

You finished reading the article "How to choose a tent to go camping, picnic, travel" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
