Instructions for coloring photos in Photoshop

Step 1:

First you need to prepare a black and white image to color. If you just learn how to fill colors, you should choose images with less textures, not complicated lines and not too much detail.

Look at the color section in the toolbar on the left of the screen with 2 colors black and white. White is Background and black is called Foreground. Press X to reverse the position of these two colors.

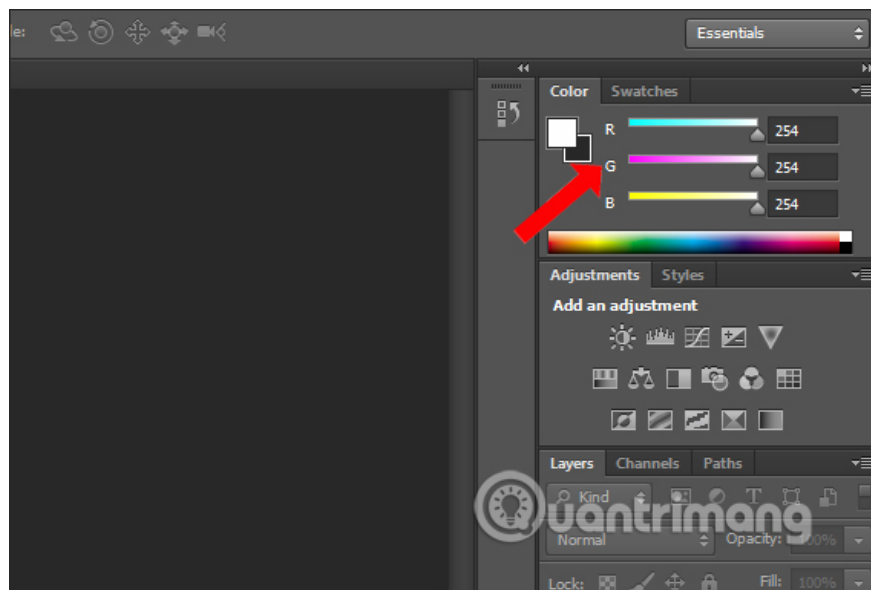

Location results have been changed as shown below.

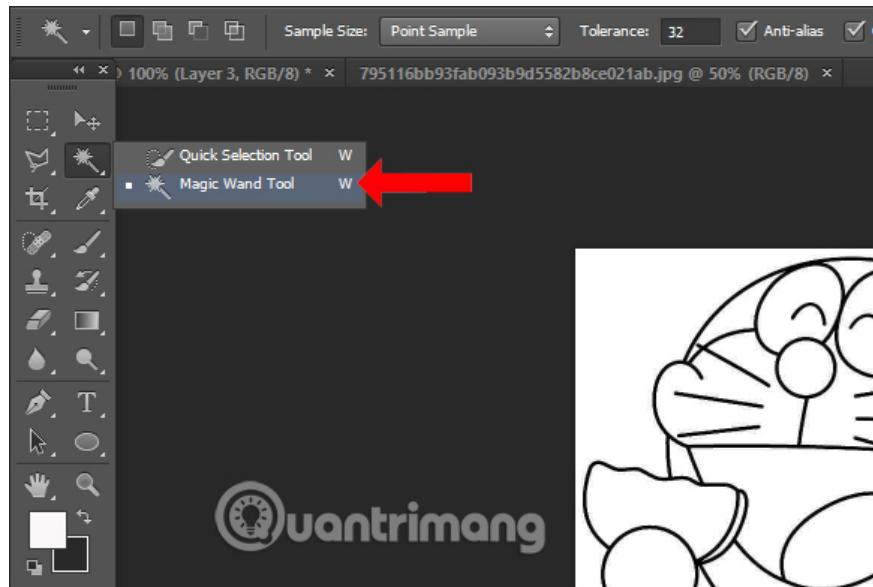

Step 2:

Switch to the toolbar to the right of the color section to select colors.

Step 3:

Click the Magic Wand Tool to select the area to paint as shown below.

Click on the areas to fill . Press Shift and click to select multiple areas to fill at once. Users need to select areas with the same color to paint.

Step 4:

Select the color you want to fill in the toolbar on the right, then press Alt + Delete to fill the Foreground color or press Ctrl + Delete to color the Background. Can expand the color palette to select more colors.

The resulting image area will be filled with color as shown below.

Step 5:

Finally, repeat the selection of another area and fill it with color and press Alt + Delete to color the character.

If you want the image to have a background color, select the background color, select the area to fill and press Ctrl + Delete to fill the image.

Finally press Ctrl + D to remove the dashed border in the image.

The basic steps for coloring photos in Photoshop will be as above. We need to select areas of the same color and then fill the color as usual. Before pouring the fill option to the Foreground or Background area in the image.
