

How to Complete Quests As a Windows Insider

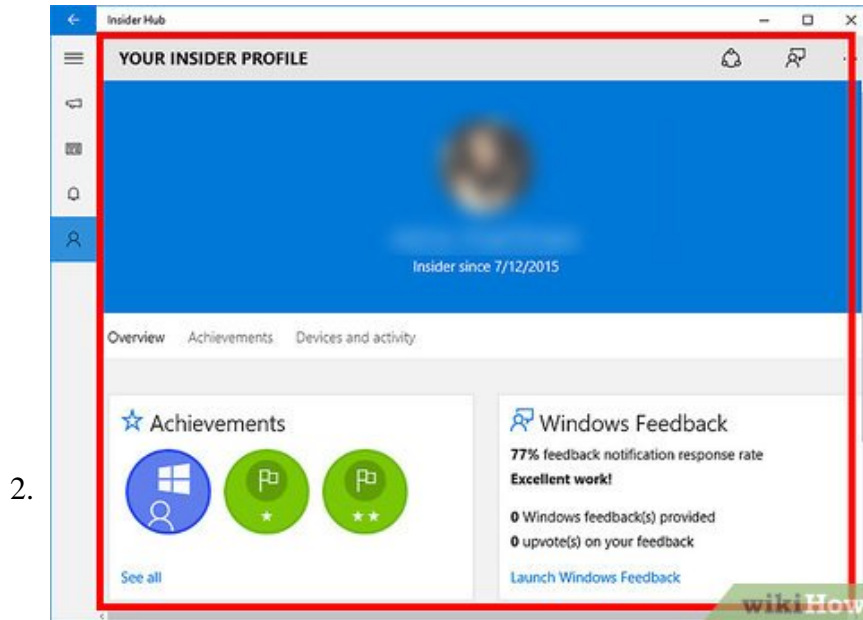

As a Windows Insider, you have some responsibilities to take care of. You are helping to make the Windows operating system (OS) a better place for new users. You help to correct issues before new builds are released to the public. One of...

Part 1 of 2:

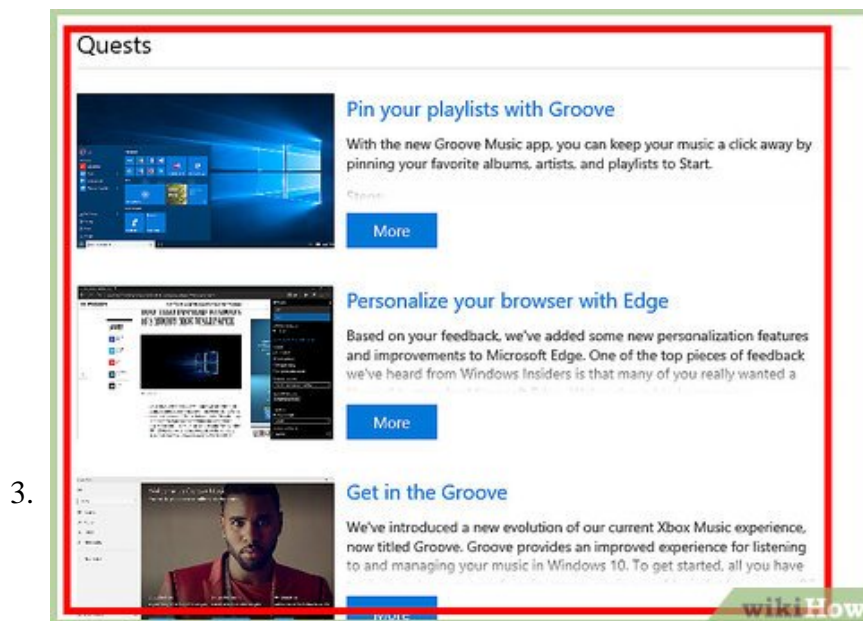

Completing Quests

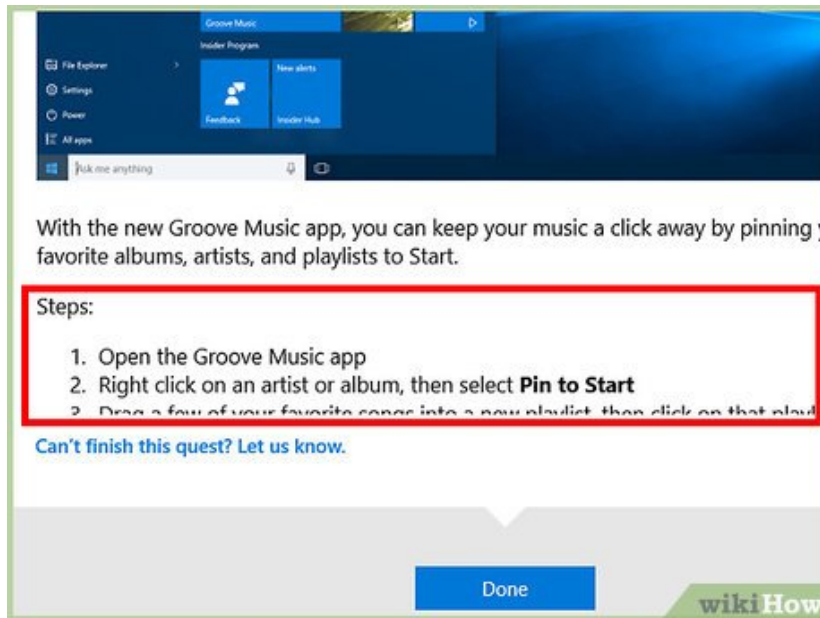

Open the Insider Hub. The Insider Hub is a place for Windows Insiders to track their completed missions as well as feedback that they have given, and is included in the Windows 10 Technical Preview. Go ahead and click 'Start' and type in 'insider.' The very first option you should see is 'Insider Hub,' so click this to continue on.

Open the menu. Your profile should be displayed on the left (Build 10130). Here you should be able to see the current build running on your PC as well as the number of quests that you have completed. You can also see the number of feedback that you have provided and your upvotes. The menu system should be located on the left-hand side of the page. Clicking the top 'hamburger' icon, 3 vertical bars, will expand the menu and identify the different options being displayed. Currently these are 'Insider Hub,' 'Announcements,' 'Alerts,' and 'Your profile.' For now, click on 'Insider Hub' to continue. If nothing happens, that means you are already on that page. Simply click the hamburger icon again.

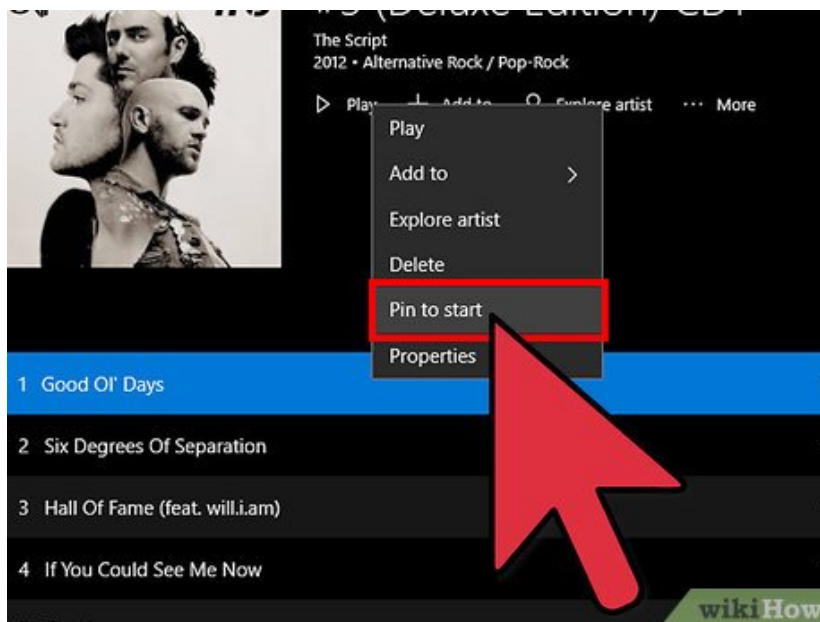

Choose a quest. In the middle of your screen, there should be a heading that says 'Quests.' Underneath this should be a series of different pictures with a description, such as 'Fine-tune your Start experience,' to the right of each of them. Find the one that interests you most and click the black 'More' button to the right of its picture to continue to the next step.

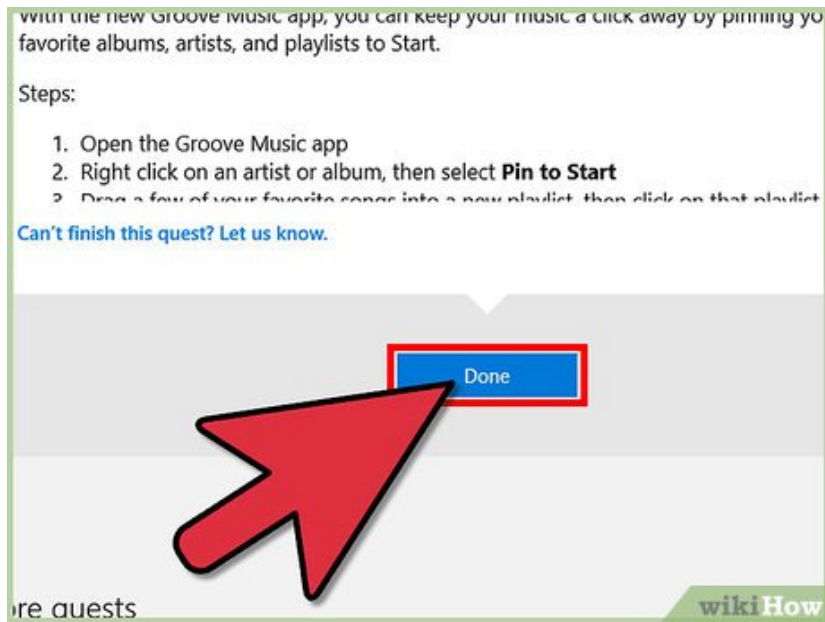

4.

Complete the steps. Once the quest loads, there should be a bigger version of the picture you just saw next to the 'More' button. Scroll down and you should see a series of different steps. The number of steps displayed will vary based on the quest. These steps will contain enough details to get you to the desired location and or feature. Complete each step before continuing on.

5.

Do a little extra. While the steps provided in the quest are a place to start, your goal as a Windows Insider is to check a little deeper. Play around with the different settings as you move through different quests. Remember that you are there to help improve the Windows 10 experience. Once you have finished testing the feature to a reasonable degree continue to the next step.

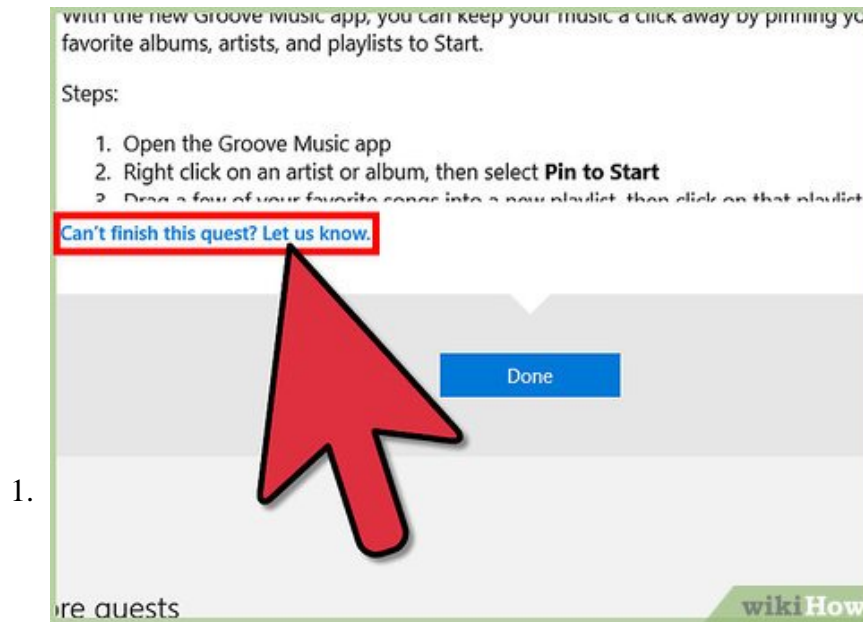

Complete the quest. Back on the Inside Hub, if you closed the quest window, you will want to reopen it. After opening the quest again, go ahead and scroll down. You should see a black 'Done' button. When you have finished the steps given, you should click this button.

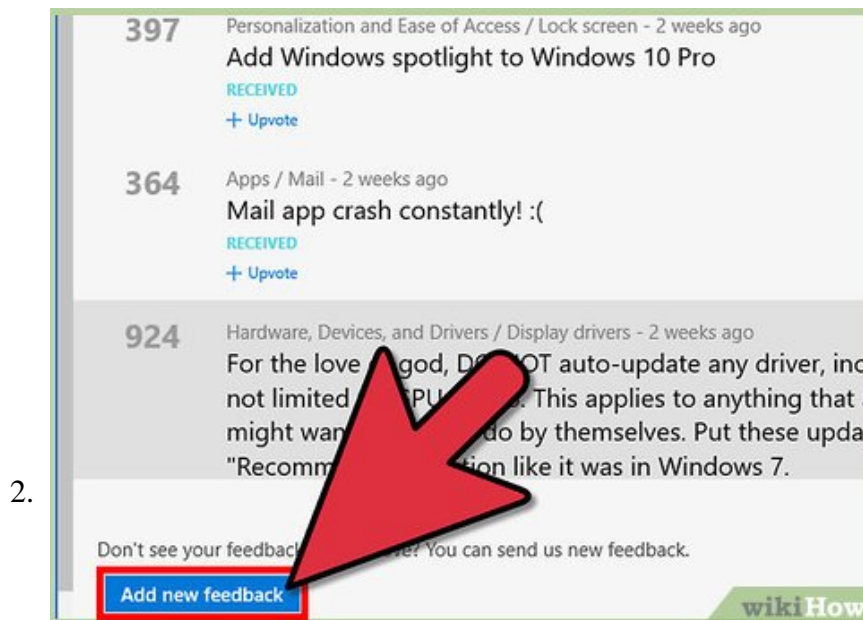

1. The first question you will be asked is 'How useful was this feature?' followed by a 1–5 selection. Choose a number based on how useful you thought the feature was. After you have done this, another area should appear below. Inside this area, you should type in whatever kind of feedback you have for the Microsoft team. This feedback is taken seriously, so be detailed.
2. Click the blue 'Submit' button to finish your first Insider Quest.

Part 2 of 2:

Providing Feedback for Incomplete Quests

Open the quest in the Insider Hub. If you were unable to complete even the basic steps given, or had any problems that prevented you from completing the quest, you can still provide feedback. If you closed the quest window, open it again. Scroll down to the very bottom of the steps, and click the gray 'Can't finish this quest? Let us know' option at the bottom. Windows Feedback will load up on the screen.

Click the blue 'Add new feedback' button at the bottom of the page. The window should transition over to a new feedback page.

3.

New feedback

What kind of feedback is this?

Suggestion Problem

Add details

Your comments are public—don't add

Select a category and subcategory to help users find your feedback

Take a screenshot

Post feedback

wikiHow

Select the options. There should be a series of different boxes and options in the window in front of you. If you have a suggestion or a problem, click the circle to the left of the respective option at the top of the screen to select it.

4.

New feedback

What kind of feedback is this?

Suggestion Problem

Add details

Your comments are public—don't add

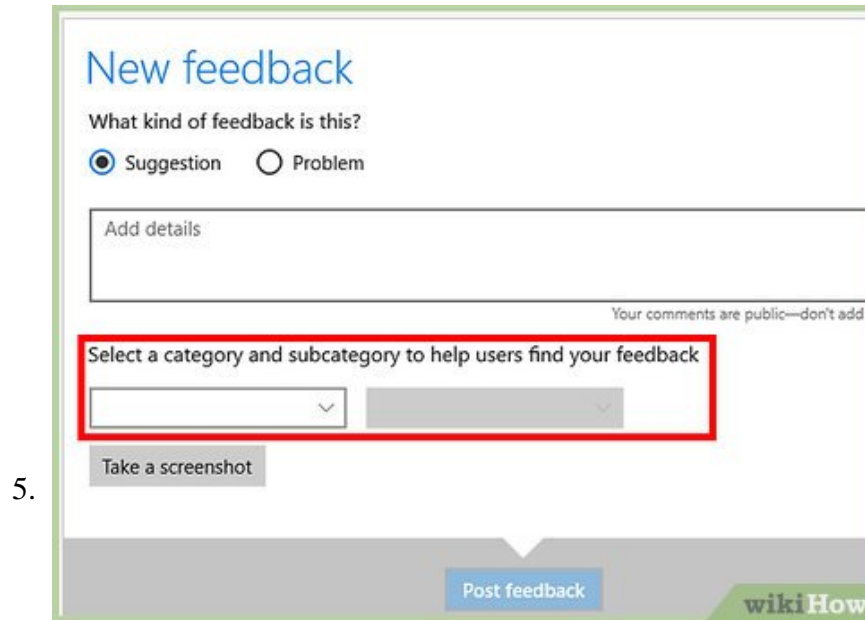

Select a category and subcategory to help users find your feedback

Take a screenshot

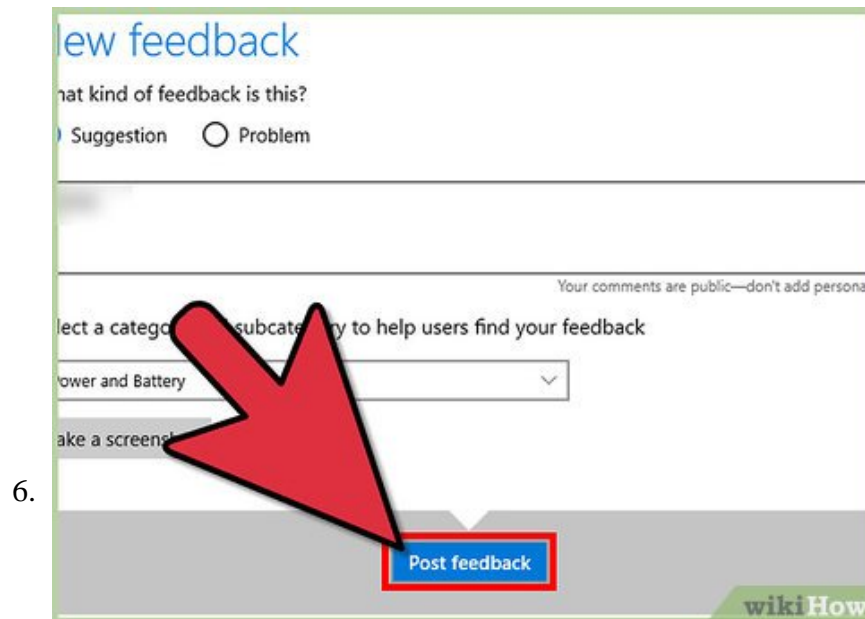

Post feedback

wikiHow

Add details regarding the issue. Click the 'Add details' box below, and type in the details of the issue here. There is no limit to the number of characters that you use to describe the issue.

Select a category. There are two different boxes underneath the details box, right next to each other. Click the left box first, and from this box, choose the category that the issue or suggestion falls under. Now click the box to the right and choose the subcategory.

Click the blue 'Post feedback' button to finish. When you are done, click the blue 'Post feedback' button at the bottom. After, you will be taken to a page that will ensure you that all feedback is received and, although not responded to directly, will be used to create a better user experience in Windows. Click the blue 'Go back' button, and then you are done. You have submitted your feedback to Microsoft.

You finished reading the article "How to Complete Quests As a Windows Insider" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
