

How to copy colors in Photoshop

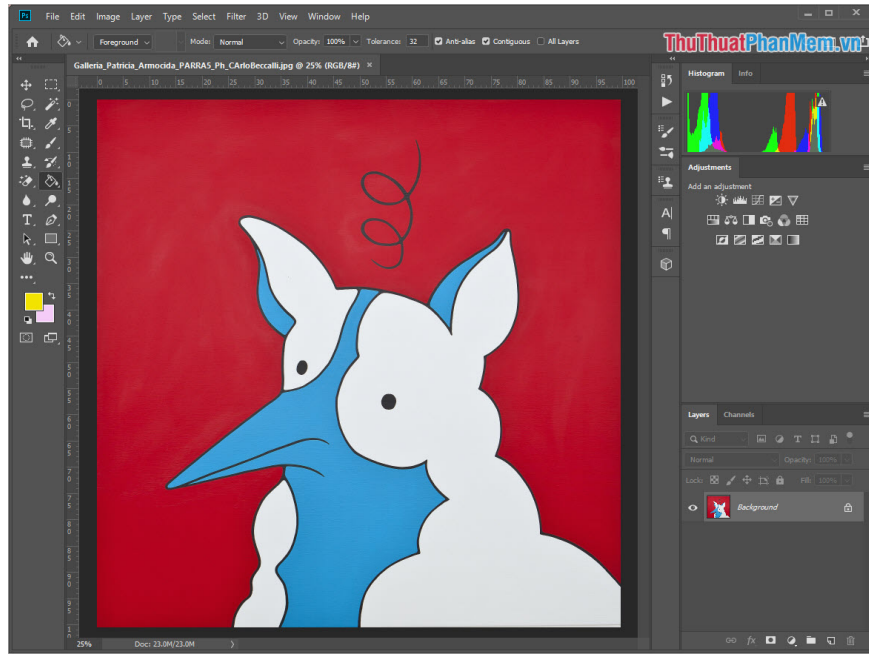

How to copy colors in Photoshop. When you work with images, you will be exposed to many colors, so how to know the exact code of a color and copy that color in Photoshop.

Photoshop is the most advanced image editing software in the world today with lots of useful and maximized tools for users. When you work with images, you will be exposed to many colors, so how to know the exact code of a color and copy that color in Photoshop. In this article, the Software Tips will guide you how to copy colors in Photoshop.

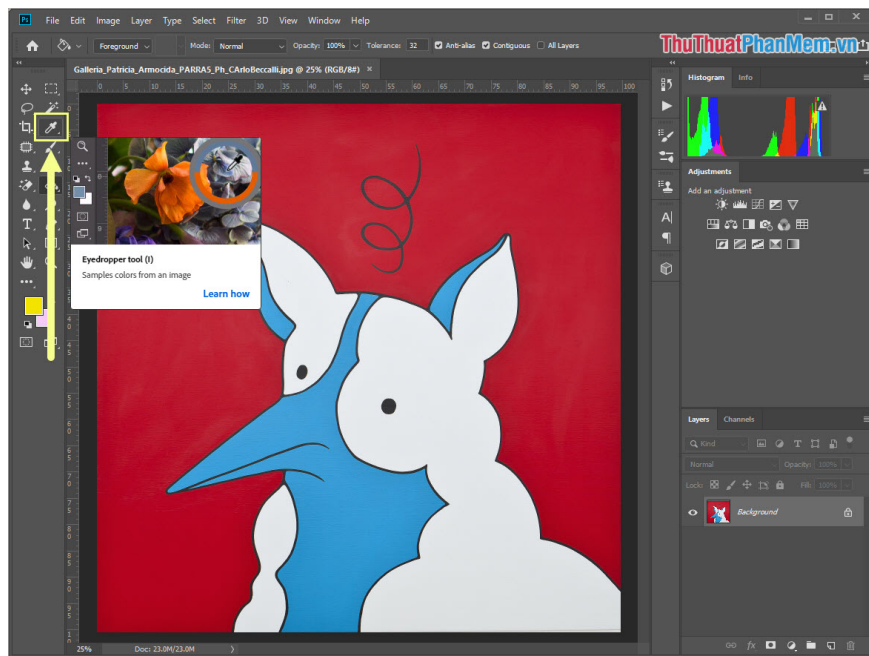

1. How to Copy colors in Photoshop

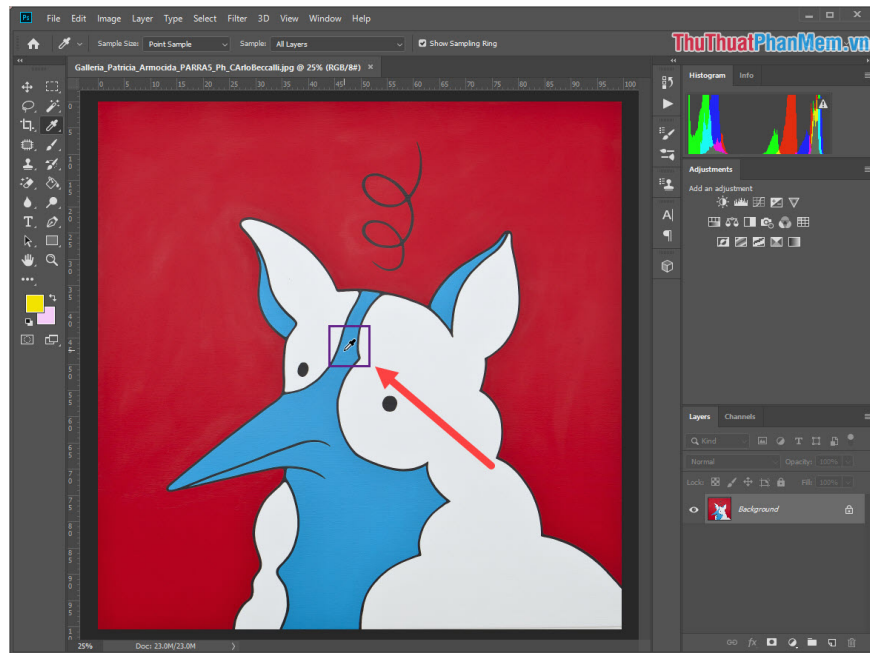

Step 1: You proceed to open the image to be copied in Photoshop software.

Step 2: After that, select the Eyedropper Tool (I) to choose the colors.

Step 3: Next, move the mouse to the color area you need to Copy and Left Click .

Step 4: The color system of Photoshop will automatically recognize that color. Click on it to see the color details .

Step 5: Here, you can see the color code. You can copy this color code to use on any image editing software or color selection tools.

We will try to search this color on Google tool to see if it is correct or not!

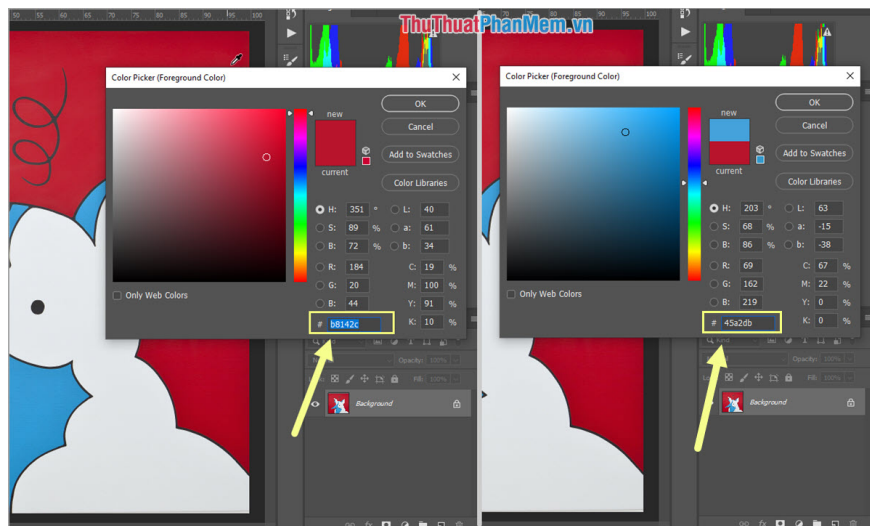

2. How to use color codes in Photoshop

When you work with the tools (brushes, paints, .) available in Photoshop, you can select the colors for those tools manually from the color code.

Step 1: You click the palette in Photoshop to change the color is selected.

Step 2: Go ahead and paste the color code into the # window and press Enter to let Photoshop accept the colors.

After that, we can use tools like: Pencil, Bucket, . to use the color we have just selected.

In this article, Software Tips showed you how to copy colors in Photoshop and how to use the colors you have copied. Good luck!

You finished reading the article "How to copy colors in Photoshop" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.