

How to create an Icloud account on computer for Apple devices

Icloud account is a tool that seems to be mandatory if you want to use services on Apple devices. Below are the steps to create an Icloud account on your computer quickly and simply.

Icloud is an exclusive cloud storage service of the Apple brand. Owning an Icloud account will help us synchronize data such as contacts, images, data, notes. between different Apple devices such as Macbook, Iphone and Ipad. In fact, you can create an Icloud account right on these devices, but if you are creating an Icloud account for your parents or simply want to operate on a computer with a larger, clearer screen, let's see the instructions on how to create an Icloud account on a computer below by Hanoicomputer!

Instructions for creating an Icloud account on a computer

In fact, the Icloud account used for Apple devices is also your Apple ID account. Therefore, if you want to create a new Icloud account , we just need to register a genuine Apple ID account to be able to use all services as well as access the Appstore to download and install applications there.

Step 1: To create a new Icloud account , on your computer, go to the AppleID website > Select Create Apple ID

Step 2: Like creating other accounts online, to create an Icloud account , you need to fill in all required personal information such as full name, date of birth, etc. Note that you must declare accurately to be able to easily recover your account when you forget your password or lose this Icloud account.

In the email section, you also cannot use email accounts that have previously created Apple IDs. Use a gmail account that you can log in with because we still need to activate the newly registered Icloud account.
