

How to draw anime hair covering one eye

This tutorial will show you how to draw an anime hairstyle that covers one eye. The article includes 6 steps with specific illustrations and video tutorials step-by-step to draw simple but beautiful anime hair.

This tutorial will show you how to draw an anime hairstyle that covers one eye . The article includes 6 steps with specific illustrations and a step-by-step video tutorial to draw simple but beautiful anime hair .

In anime and manga, the hairstyle that covers one eye is often used for characters with a shy personality. This hairstyle has several variations but of course, its most striking feature is that it only shows one eye.

Note, use a pencil to draw on the paper and an eraser. Start by drawing very thin and translucent lines to easily erase the unnecessary parts after finishing. In addition, you also easily erase the wrong strokes.

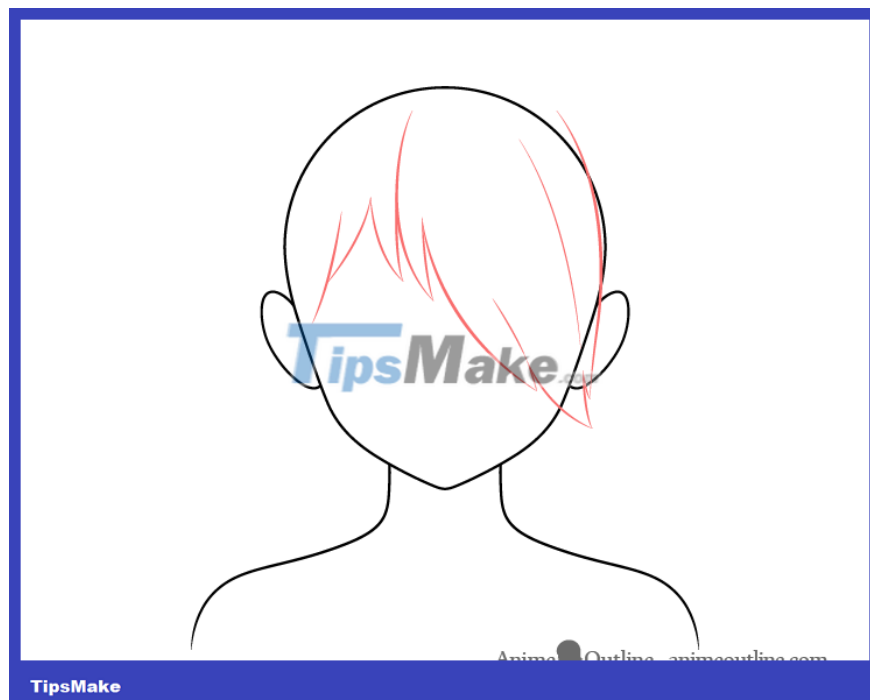

Detailed instructions for drawing anime hair covering one eye

Step 1: Draw the head and shoulders

Start by basically drawing the head, neck, and shoulders. Since this tutorial focuses on hair, we won't go into the details of drawing them, but you can simply follow the simple example above.

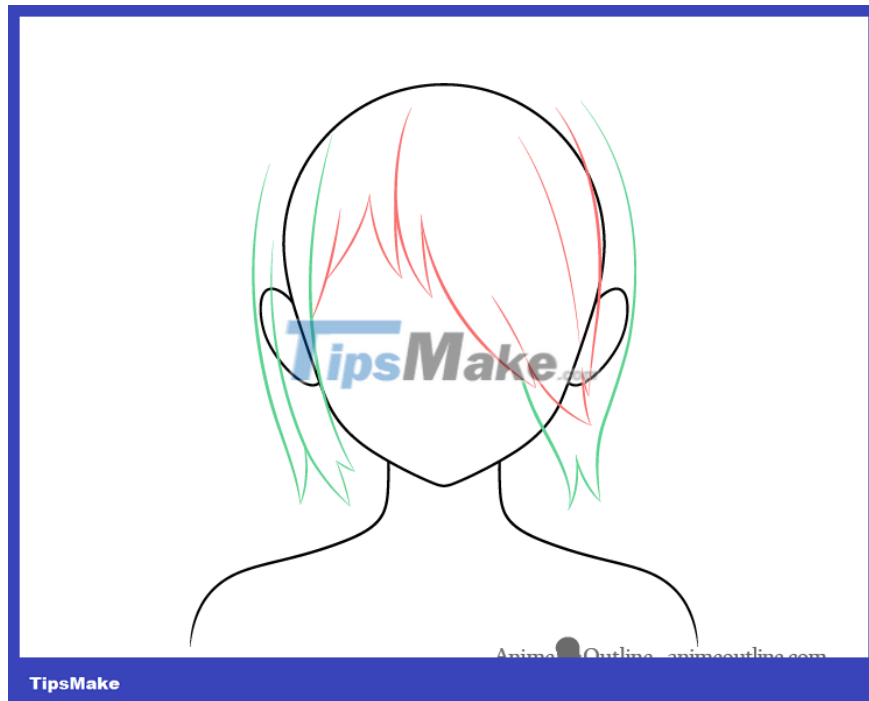

Step 2: Draw hair along the forehead and above the eyes

Start by sketching the front part of the hair. Trim it shorter on one side and longer on the opposite (running down to the ears and covering the top of the face).

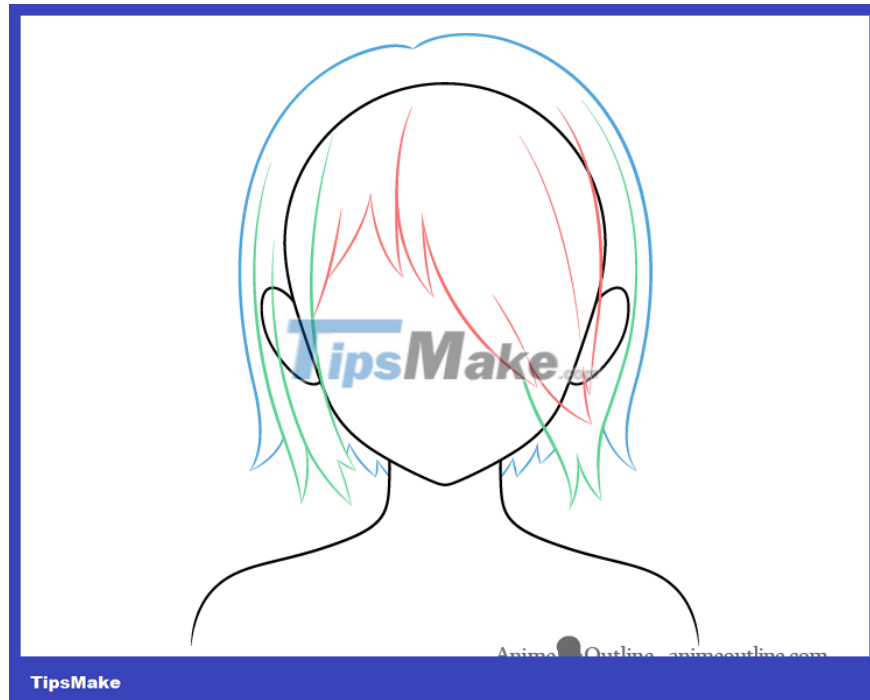

In this example, different sections of hair are colored differently to make it easier for the viewer to distinguish. However, you can use a regular pencil to draw them all.

Step 3: Draw the hair along the sides of the head

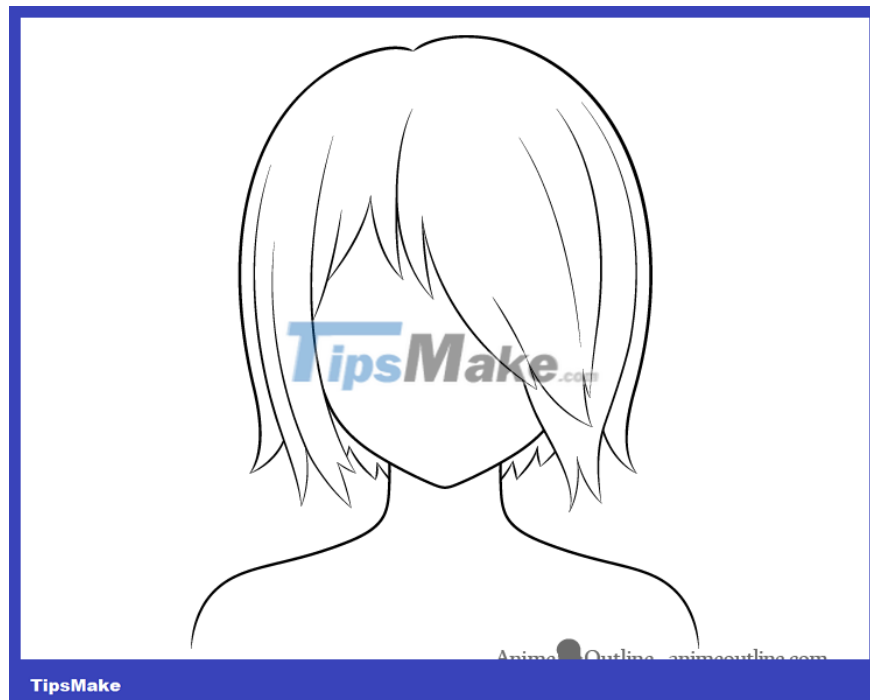

Draw the side sections of the hair (green), where the hair on the open face will curl slightly around the head and split into several small sections at the ends. Draw the hair on the opposite side starting from the bottom of the front sections and curling around the side of the head as it works towards the top. You can also break it down at the end.

Step 4: Draw the hair at the top & back of the head

Draw the final section of hair starting at the top and following the curve of the head as it goes down. You can then create a small curl of hair that curls up on each side. To complete the section, draw a series of smaller curls between the sides (the green part) and the neck.

Finally clean up the drawing by erasing the top sections covered by hair. If you're wondering why you need to sketch out the first part and then erase most of it, the main reason is to help you avoid making mistakes. Obviously, you can see that the shape of the head makes it easier for you to shape your hair.

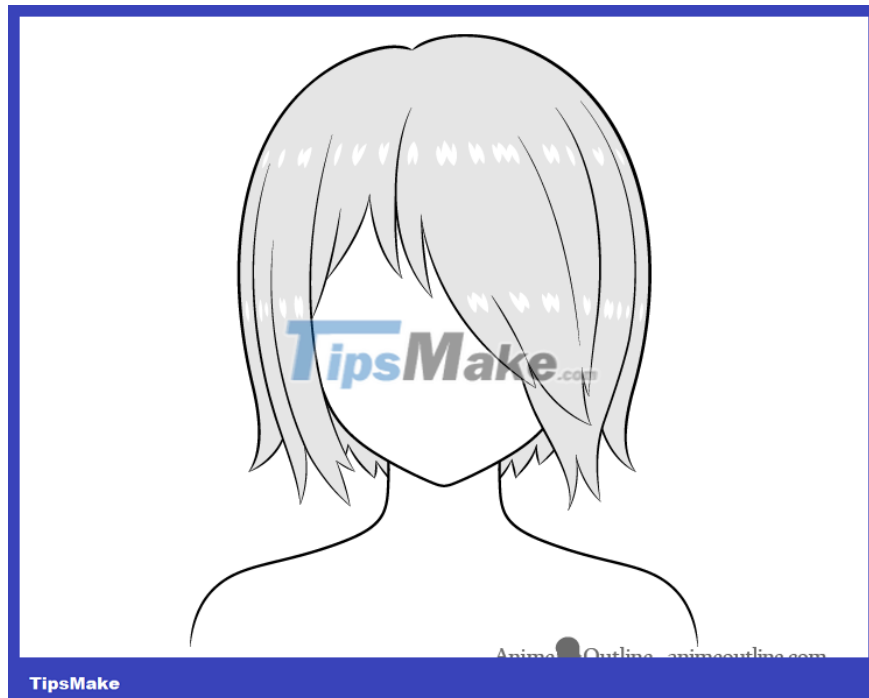

After removing the unnecessary parts, bold the remaining lines.

To make your hair shiny, you can shade two small rows of hair.

You have several ways to do this:

1. Sketch the highlights like the example above and draw shadows/colors around them.
2. Create highlights as you cast shadows.
3. Add highlight on top of hair color/shadow (use white correction pen in drawing on paper or create a new layer if you draw online).

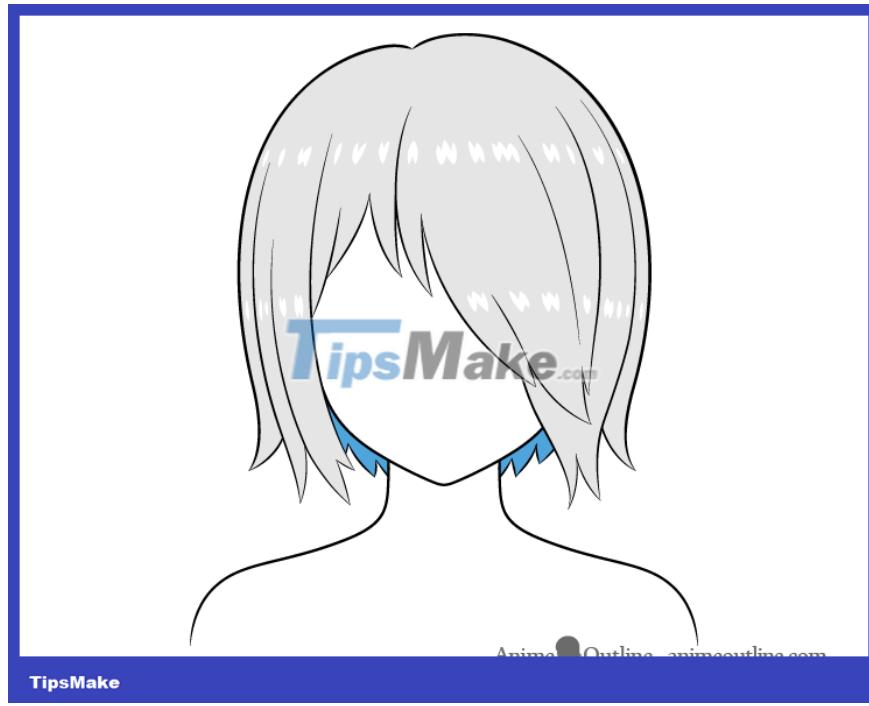

Step 6: Add a drop shadow to complete the drawing of anime hair covering one eye

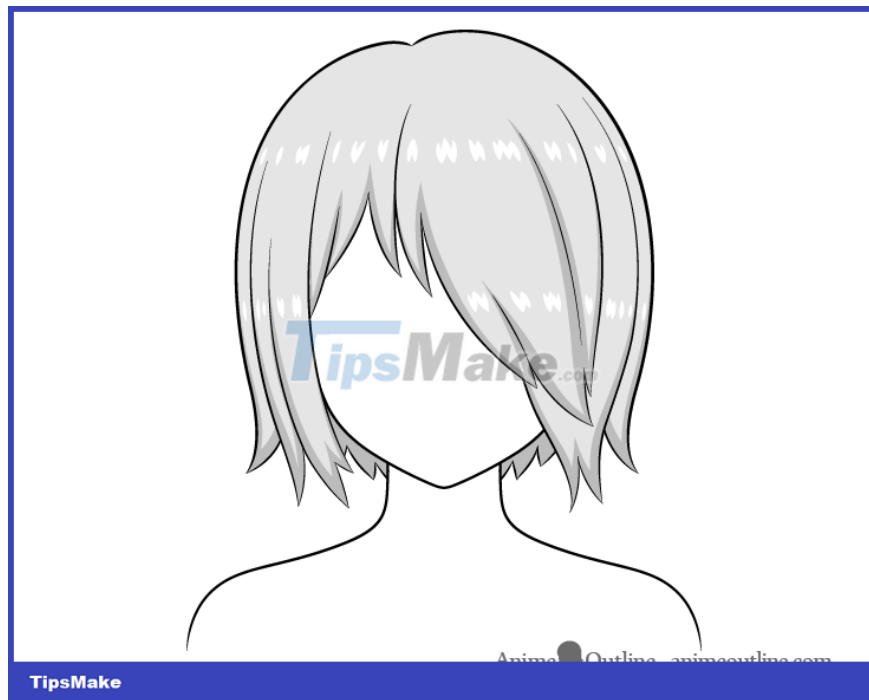

Shade one side of the hair with a regular pencil or paint it the color you want it to be.

Finally, add a little drop shadow. Start by shading the background of the hair between the neck and the sides.

Next add the shadow along with the sides and bottom of the curls in front.

Finally add shadows along the sides.

Remember that shadows can change depending on lighting conditions. The above hairstyle is suitable for scenes where the character is outdoors during the day.

Video tutorial to draw anime hair covering one eye

Above is how to draw anime hair covering one eye . Hope the article is useful to you.

You finished reading the article "How to draw anime hair covering one eye" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
