Looking up at the video frame will see the preview before joining the music into the video. We can edit the sound through the Saturation sound section right next to it. If you switch the circle button to the Original Sound Priority, then the added music will be reduced to increase the original sound in the video. If you switch the circle button to Music priority, the new sound will be louder and drown out the original sound.

When added, click the Save changes button below.

YouTube will notify users of the video processing process and need to wait a while to complete, click Save and wait for YouTube to process to transition to another editor.

3. Add YouTube video ending screen

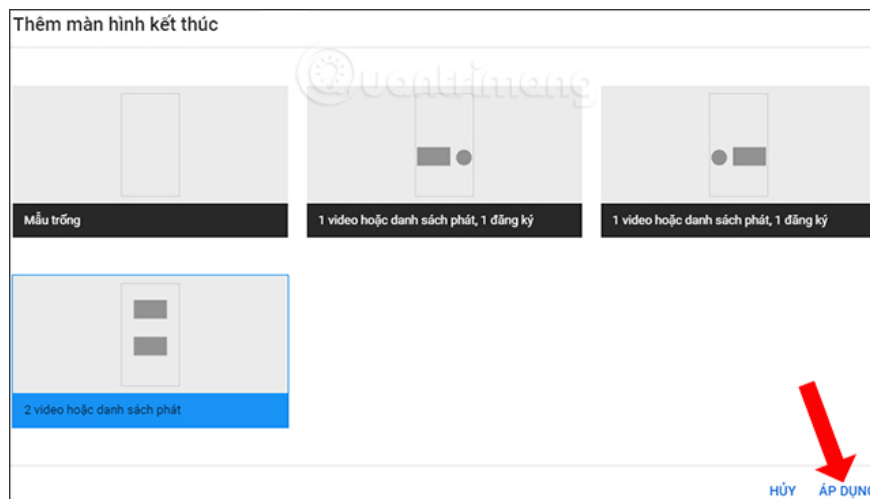

Step 1:

Go back to the video editing interface on YouTube and click on the Add screen to end.

Step 2:

This will display the type of video ending screen as shown below. Click on the ending screen type and then click the Apply button below.

Step 3:

Next we look down at the Add screen end section to adjust the screen display time to end . Adjust the vertical blue line to adjust the screen display time to end.

Users can also adjust the screen playback time to end by extending the video frame as shown below. You should preview the video to check how the content shows up when the video ends.

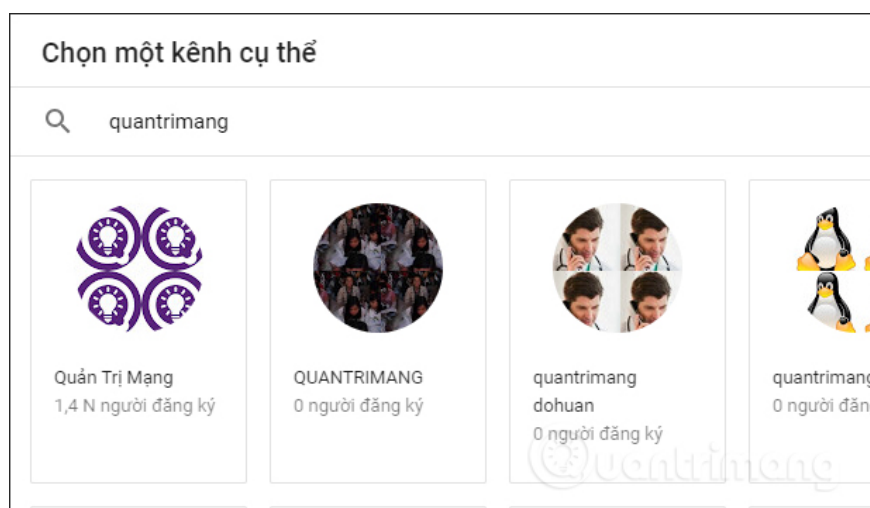

Step 4:

Look up above to select Video Element including Video, Playlist, Register, Channel to display at the end screen.

If it's a video, select the videos uploaded to YouTube, if it is Playlist, enter the name of the list you want to find to show the results, Sign up will be your YouTube channel name, Channel is a YouTube channel.

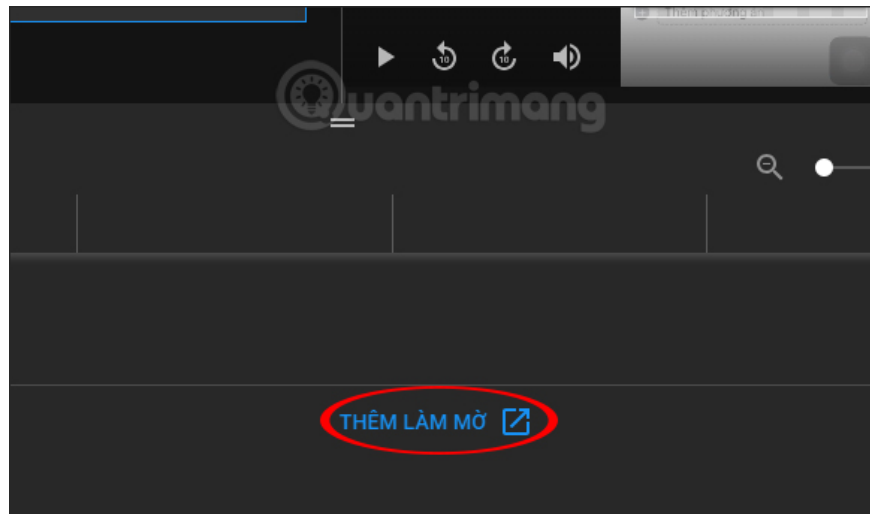

This selection depends on what purpose you want to display when the slideshow video is about to end.

4. Add video blur effect

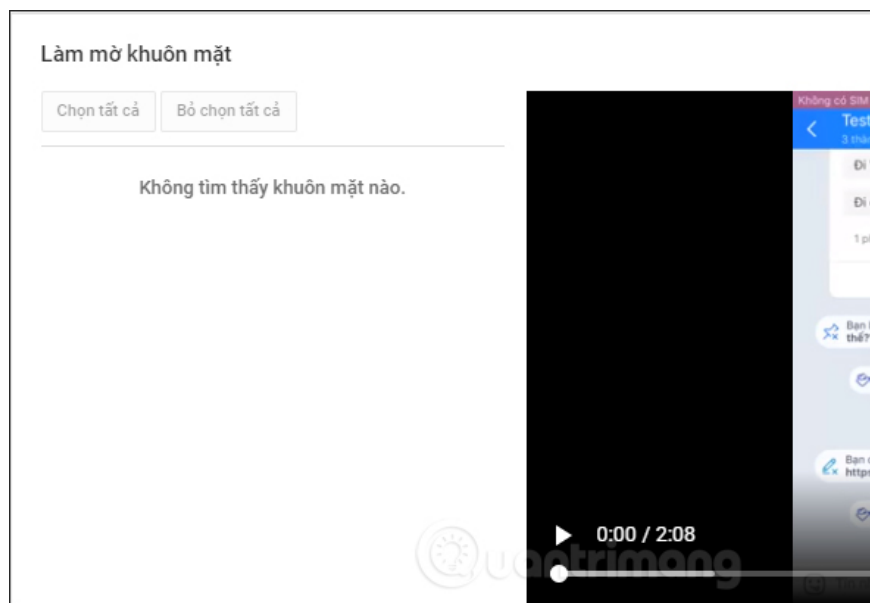

Step 1:

Click on the Add blur section to select the effect for the video.

Step 2:

We are transferred to a separate interface. In this section there is the option of Face Blurring and Custom Blur. When pressing Face blur , YouTube handles video processing to identify faces in the video. If no face will receive the message as below.

Step 3:

Click on Custom dimming to show the new interface. Here you click on the video you want to blur. Pink frame on the video to adjust the blur area. Frame horizontal time below to adjust the time to blur the object. Finally click Finish . Also click Save to save the changes and also need to wait for YouTube to finish processing.

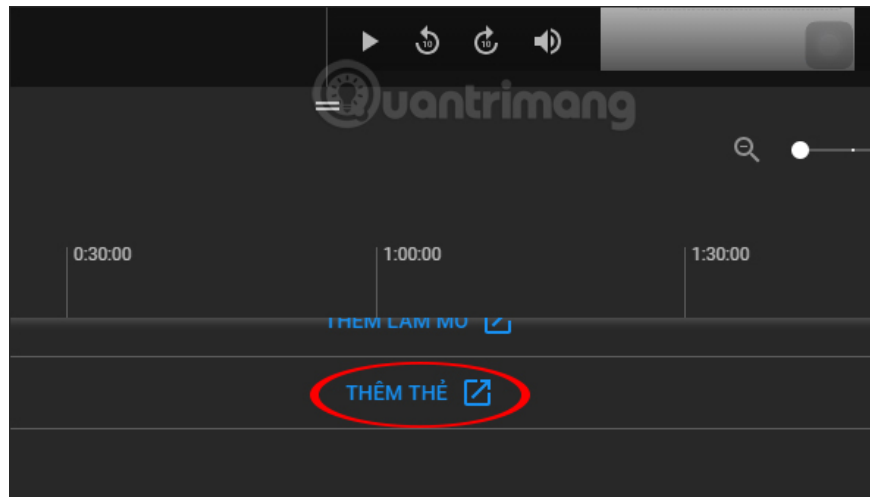

5. Add tags for YouTube videos

This is a new feature for video editing. You can add tags to add interactivity to the video. Tags will take viewers to a specific URL, displaying images and titles depending on the type of card.

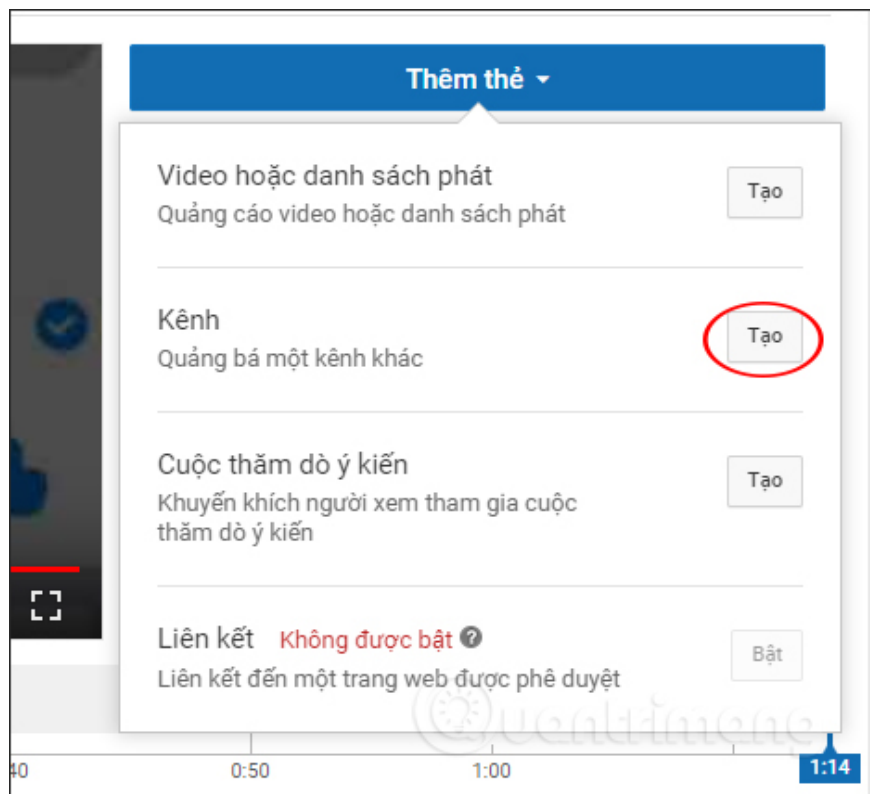

Step 1:
