

How to engrave the Hextech clan The Truth Arena

With the instructions in this article, the way to engrave the Hextech clan's Truth Arena will become quite simple.

As you probably already know, the Hextech clan in the Truth Arena is a strong clan capable of locking all of your team's equipment without noticing. This skill of Hextech was born in order to manipulate meta to equip a powerful general to shoulder the team.

In addition, this skill is also used to deal with the formation of a line of large damage-causing teams like Archers - Gunners - Wizards. Of course, you can also avoid this effect of the Hextech clan and protect the equipment for the currently stacked heroes in your lineup under a few tips below this article.

Instructions on how to remedy the Hextech Roster of Truth Arena

Things you should know about the Hextech clan

1. 2 General Hextech will lock all equipment within 7 seconds, 4 Hextech generals will lock the equipment twice as long, ie 15 seconds. Think of it as those who are locked out of the equipment.
2. When in battle, the Hextech faction will throw a disarming bomb equipped into a random hero who is equipped. Do not prioritize to target generals with more equipment.
3. The scope of this equipped bomb will include the selected champion's cell and a box around the hero, as shown above the picture you can see is 5 cells, not including a missing one (total of 6) umbrella).

How to overcome the Hextech effect

1. Spreading the map for all types of generals

When you can't match multiple equipment, this is a way to avoid lockout when too many people use Hextech. Most gamers use only 2 Hextech to match the team.

So don't stack the equipment to show a champion right at the beginning of the game, but spread it out to different generals. Mostly items that you cannot pair, equip the general to use it reasonably, not in the warehouse.

In this way the number of pawn bosses will increase, Hextech's target will also increase and decrease the hit rate to the hero you are gathering.

2. Arrange generals

As mentioned above, Hextech explosive bombs will also affect the surrounding area. So let the armed generals stand a little apart from each other so they won't get bombed. While this may confuse your squad, it is only a bit discrete.

With the Hextech tribulation trick above, maybe the arrangement of your squad will not work as well. But it will help you avoid having too many generals locked in your squad, especially with the stacked generals.
