

How to find Creaking Hearts in Minecraft

To defeat Creaking, players need to destroy a block called Creaking Heart. In this article, Taimienphi will show you how to find Creaking Hearts in Minecraft around Pale Garden, as well as how to use them.

With Minecraft 1.21.44 Vietnamese update, players can explore a new biome in Pale Garden, this Dark Forest variant has a mob called The Creaking.

What are Creaking Hearts in Minecraft?

Creaking Heart is a living block that can be crafted or found in Pale Garden. At night or during thunderstorms, Creaking Heart will summon Creaking and protect it from all damage. To destroy Creaking, players need to find Creaking Hearts and destroy them.

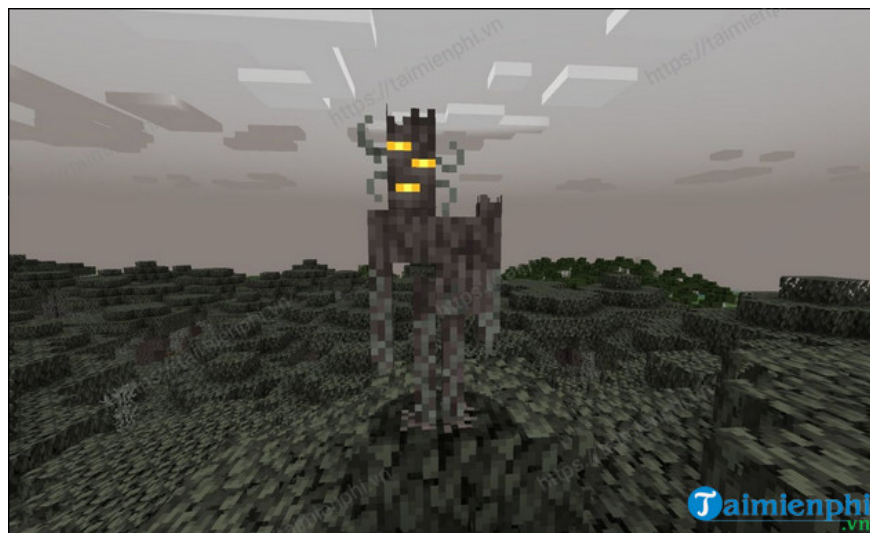

How to find Creaking Hearts in Minecraft

To locate the Creaking Heart block, players will need to venture into the Pale Garden. There are several ways to get to the Pale Garden, but the easiest is to use the Locate Command.

=> See how to use the Locate command in Minecraft here.

Once you're in the Pale Garden, look for the white Pale Oak Trees and check for a glowing orange spot on one of them, as that's the Creaking Heart you're looking for. Be careful, though, as Creakings may be nearby and could attack if you're not paying attention. Also, don't forget to enchant your tools with Silk Touch to collect the Creaking Heart.

- Note: Creakings only move when you're not looking at them, so your positioning is key to keeping them still. Pay attention to where you're facing to prevent them from wandering around.

For those who don't know, the Silk Touch enchantment in Minecraft allows blocks to drop as themselves instead of their regular items. Without Silk Touch, the Creaking Heart won't drop anything when you try to collect it. So make sure your tools are enchanted with Silk Touch before you go hunting for the Creaking Heart.

How to Craft Creaking Heart in Minecraft

This method only applies when you have found at least 1 Creaking Heart first to get the necessary materials, which are Pale Oak and Resin Block. They help you confront Creaking more effectively without having to find Creaking Hearts every time you fight.

- Crafting recipe:

+ 2 Pale Oak logs

+ 1 Resin Block

=> Place the Resin Block in the middle of the crafting square, with Pale Oak above and below the resin block, and you will create Creaking Heart.

How to Use Creaking Hearts in Minecraft

After acquiring Creaking Heart, you can reactivate it by surrounding it with Pale Oak Logs. When Creaking Heart glows orange, it will summon Creaking mobs in the area.

When you destroy a Creaking Heart, you will receive a striking orange Resin Clump that can be used as a building material. Combined with the light gray color of Pale Oak, resin bricks will help your construction become more vivid and unique in the Minecraft world.

If you often play alone and want to have more female companions, you can download Jenny Mod and install them into the Minecraft game. This mod version is quite famous and is used by many gamers to make the game experience more interesting.

==> See more ways to install Jenny Mod in Minecraft on operating systems

You finished reading the article "How to find Creaking Hearts in Minecraft" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.