A nice day suddenly your Facebook account unfinished sign in. You do not understand why? But don't worry, you should calmly try ways to make sure that your Facebook account is still active and recoverable. This article I will guide you to restore your Facebook account when compromised offline!

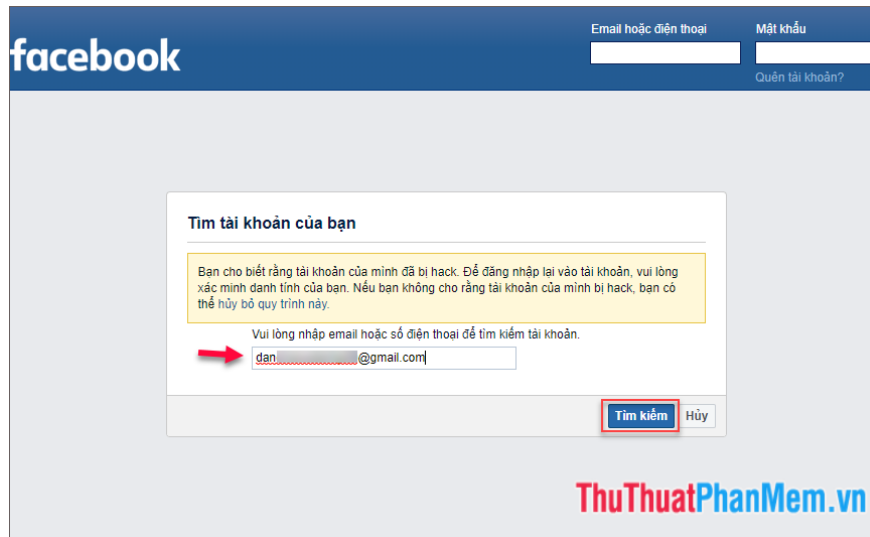

First, you need to determine if your account is still active by using another Facebook account to search your account by entering your account ID or Login Phone Number. Without it, the ability of your account is locked or deleted, the ability to find the account is almost impossible. And the account information that appears in the search bar means your account can be retrieved.

Step 1: You access the Facebook account statement website at <https://www.facebook.com/hacked> and then click on My account has been compromised

Step 2: Enter the Email or Phone number you used to log into that account and then click Search.

Step 3: Continue to enter the password you most recently logged in, and then click Continue .

Step 4: A new notice board will appear, select Protect my account .

Step 5: In the new notification panel, choose 1 of 3 options. Choosing option 1 is the quickest and simplest way because there is no need to wait for the confirmation email or confirmation message sent to your Phone Number. Click Continue to move to the next step.
