

How to join Windows Insider to download and experience the latest Builds?

Each year Microsoft will release some major Windows 10 update updates. However, if you want to 'have the right' new updates available, you will have to join the Windows Insider Program. As a member, you can download updates completely for free with just a few mouse clicks. Then your computer will load new builds (aka versions).

Each year Microsoft will release some major Windows 10 update updates. However, if you want to "have the right" new updates available, you will have to join the Windows Insider Program. As a member, you can download updates completely for free with just a few mouse clicks. Then your computer will load new builds (aka versions).

The biggest drawback of Windows Insider here is the beta version so it is inevitable that the error is. The most basic error is not to allow you to adjust the screen brightness on a laptop or other errors that may occur as your favorite application does not work.

If you want to join Windows Insider to download and experience the latest builds available, you can refer to the following article of Network Administrator.

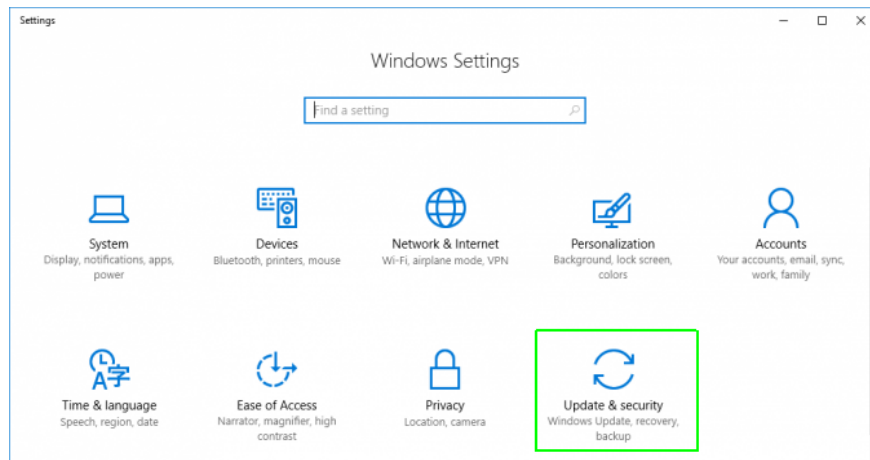

Steps to join Windows Insider to experience the latest Builds

To join Windows Insider, download and experience the latest Build versions, follow the steps below:

1. First open the Settings app on your Windows computer. To do this, click the Settings alias icon on the Start Menu.

2. On the Settings window, find and click Update and Security .

3. Next choose Windows Insider .

4. Click the Get Started button.

5. If you have not logged into your Microsoft account, you will have to log in to your Microsoft account or if you do not have a Microsoft account, you will have to create a new account.

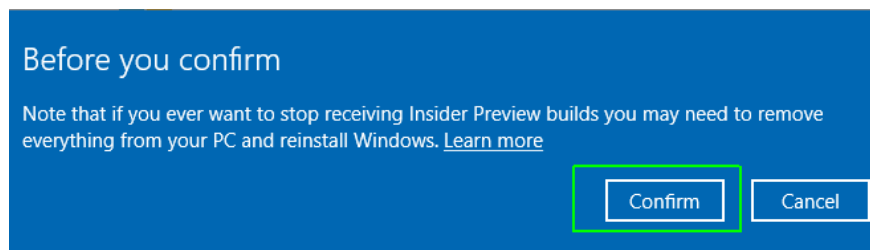

Refer to the steps to create a Microsoft account here.

6. Click Next when a warning appears with the following message: "installing pre-release software" as shown below:

7. Click Confirm .

8. Click on Restart Now .

And your computer will reboot.

9. Go back to the Windows Insider Program menu after the computer has finished booting by visiting Settings => Update and Security => Windows Insider Program .

10. Select Insider Level from the menu.

Levels (also called rings) include:

- Fast : You always get the latest versions of Windows 10 when available, which means that the version you use has a high risk of errors.
- Slow : You will receive a build and update new features, less risk.
- Release Preview : You will not receive any new builds but you will definitely receive patches before being released.

If you really want to experience the latest versions, you can choose Fast ring . Note that when this option is selected, the risk will be higher.

By default, the process may take hours or even days before the computer downloads the first pre-release update. However, you can force the computer to check for updates (update), follow the steps below:

11. Select Windows Update in the left pane.

12. Click Check for Updates to force Windows 10 to find new builds on the server. It may or may not work immediately and you may have to click multiple times. Or you can wait for the updates to update automatically.
