

How to know if a user has blocked you on TikTok.

If you haven't seen someone's TikTok posts in a while or you can no longer message them directly, you may have been blocked.

If a TikTok user blocks you, depending on how much interaction you have with that person, you'll need to know if they've blocked you. If you don't see any posts from them for a long time, it's possible they've blocked you.

There are many reasons why you might be blocked on TikTok. If you suspect you've been blocked, try these tips.

1. How to block TikTok users

How to know if someone has blocked you on TikTok

Try searching for the username.

Here's the basic method: just search for the username in the TikTok app bar and enter the username you want to check. If you don't see their account name appear, you may have been blocked. But if they deleted their account, you won't be able to find it either.

Therefore, in many cases, you might also be confused between being blocked by a user and them deleting their account. In this case, if you want to know for sure whether the user deleted their account or blocked your account, search for their account name in guest mode or use a different TikTok account and search for their account name.

Find a TikTok account if they've deleted it or changed their username.

However, you also won't be able to find the account of the person who blocked you if they change their username. In this case, go to your profile page > select the three-line icon in the upper right corner > Settings and Privacy > Activity Center > under Past Activity and Interactions , check items like Viewing history, comments, searches, and mentions . You might find what you're looking for.

If you've tried everything to find the user you're looking for but can't, they may have deleted their account. In this case, you can only contact them by phone or other apps.

If you want to block someone, simply go to the person's profile page, select the share arrow icon in the upper right corner > select Block and agree to block them.
