How to make a pen box with cloth

Step 1:

You use the marker and then cut the black and white plaid into a cloth with a length of 33.7cm and a width of 9cm.

Similarly, cut the felt cloth into a small cloth with a length of 33cm and a width of 7.5cm. Estimate the middle position of the width of the felt cloth by cutting two diagonal lines into a 3cm long V-shape to make the lid of the pen box.

You can adjust the size of the cloth to your liking to fit the kind of big, small, long, and short pen you have.

Step 2:

Then, place the felt cloth on the black and white cloth, align it right and the center of the cloth.

Fold the outer edge of the black and white piece of cloth onto the felt cloth and then use the adhesive cloth to seal it, leaving the cut-off V-shaped head.

Step 3:

Cut a piece of rubber band about 10cm long, double it, put one third of the wedge in between the inverted V section of the felt cloth and fix it firmly with glue to make the closure button - open the pen case.

Then, fold the cross-section of the black and white cloth in a V shape, cover the pasted piece and reveal the rubber band.

Step 4:

Next, double fold the cloth, so that the edge of the width of the cloth overlaps with the two corners of the V-fabric just pasted and then use the glue around the edges to get a sealed cloth bag.

Fold the V-section down, estimate the hook to pull the button to push it into that position, forming the button.

So you have completed the cute cloth pen box without the need for a patchy patch.

You can buy more unique pens or other learning tools, put them in a pen box and take them away for your classmate.
