

How to make notes on the Edge Chromium website

The Paint Editor utility helps you take notes on any Edge Chromium website and take screenshots of your computer right on the utility.

From the Microsoft Edge Chromium version, the on-screen notes feature has been removed, so users who want to annotate on the website must first take a screenshot of the computer screen, then use Paint or image editing software to write content. Although simple, the operation is relatively multi-step. If so, users can use the Paint Editor utility to use note-taking tools right on the web whenever they need it. The utility also supports a list of shortcuts for quick use instead of common operations. The following article will guide you how to make notes on the Edge Chromium website in Paint Editor.

Instructions for making notes on the Edge Chromium website

Step 1:

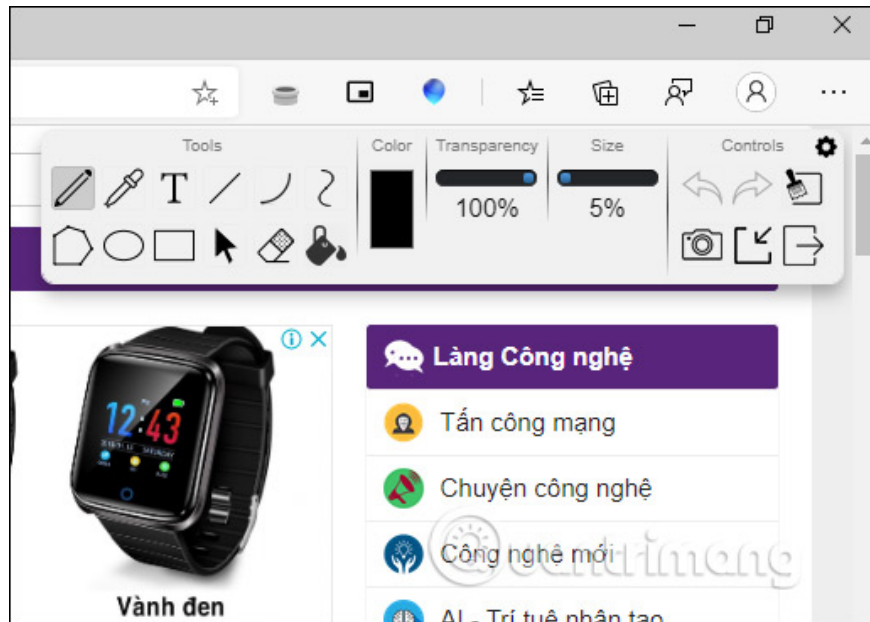

We download the Paint Editor utility for the browser by following the link below.

1. Download the Paint Editor utility

Step 2:

Open the webpage you want to take a note of, then click the Paint Editor utility icon on the toolbar. This will display the table with a lot of note-taking tools on the web as shown below. The site note options are categorized into different groups.

1. Tools: Drawing tools such as lines, shapes, gradients, arrows, erasers, etc.
2. Color: Choose the color for the comment or line drawing on the page.
3. Transparency: Move the slider to adjust the density (right is dark).
