Apple iOS 11.4 brings the ability to play music from iPhone to multiple speakers with AirPlay 2. If you want to experience a great audio system, you can follow these simple steps to try this impressive feature!

Apple's iOS 11.4 version offers the ability to play music from iPhone to multiple speakers with AirPlay 2. If you want to experience a great sound system, you can follow these simple steps to try this impressive feature. !

Along with Messages on iCloud, AirPlay 2 is the most mentioned feature in iOS 11.4. This feature was first launched in 2017 on iOS 11.3 beta, but when officially released, Apple removed it. And now with iOS 11.4, you can experience this feature again.

If you have multiple AirPlay 2 compatible devices and speakers , you can make the most of this feature to increase your listening experience. But be sure to update your devices.

Make sure your iPhone / iPad is running iOS 11.4 or later. In addition, speaker devices must be set up in the Home application on iOS and run the latest software.

Note: If you have not set up the speaker, go to Home Application ? touch '+' ? select Add Accessory and follow the instructions.

Step 1 . Open your favorite music application and open the song you want to listen to.

Tip: Not only play music from the music application, you can also play music from the Podcast application.

Step 2 . Swipe the screen from bottom to top to display the Control Center - Control Center .

Step 3 . Touch and hold the sound card in the top right corner, then adjust the sound according to your wishes.

Step 4 . Touch the AirPlay icon and select the device (Speaker) you want to play sound.

Now, enjoy the excellent sound quality of your audio devices.
