Method 2: Use the power button without receiving a call

If you want to operate faster, you can use the power button to lock the screen to reject the call. When the button is pressed for the first time, the phone rings or vibrates on the phone. If we press the second time, it means the Reject call. Depending on the iPhone line, the power button will be located on the same machine or on the side of the device.

Operation to reject a call via the power button will help users when we are on the road, in the meeting, . can not hold the phone to turn off directly on the screen interface.

So you know how to reject unwanted calls on your iPhone, as well as how to quickly turn off calls on your iPhone via the power key on your device. If we can't press the Decline button, using the power button is the simplest way.

Method 3: Reject the phone with a headset

Another way to help you reject a call on your iPhone when the screen is locked is to use any headset. To reject a call with a headset, simply press and hold the EarPods control center button for 2 seconds. You will now hear two beeps indicating that you have successfully declined the call.

Method 4: Reject with Apple Watch

In addition to the above, you can also use Apple Watch to reject unwanted calls on iPhone. To decline, press the red reject button or double-click the rotate button on it, now the phone will automatically reject the call.
