

How to remove red bricks for messages on Skype Windows 10

Red underscores under Skype messages on Windows 10 look quite annoying. So how to delete red hyphens in Skype messages?

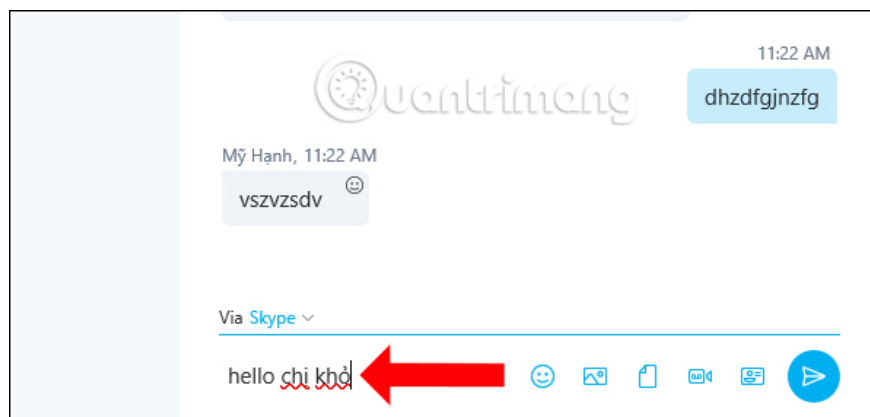

When writing content on Word, a red underscore appears to make the user uncomfortable, obscuring the vision of controlling the content and spelling of the text. And on the Windows 10 Skype application, red underlines also appear when typing messages.

This is because on Windows 10 there is a spell checker, which automatically checks for errors with the Universal Windows Platform (UWP) application, so Skype appears underlined when texting. This automatic spell checking feature is not really necessary, so you can turn them off, hiding the red underline when entering Skype messages. So what is the way to delete red hyphens when entering messages on Skype application?

How to remove red bricks in Skype messages

Download Skype

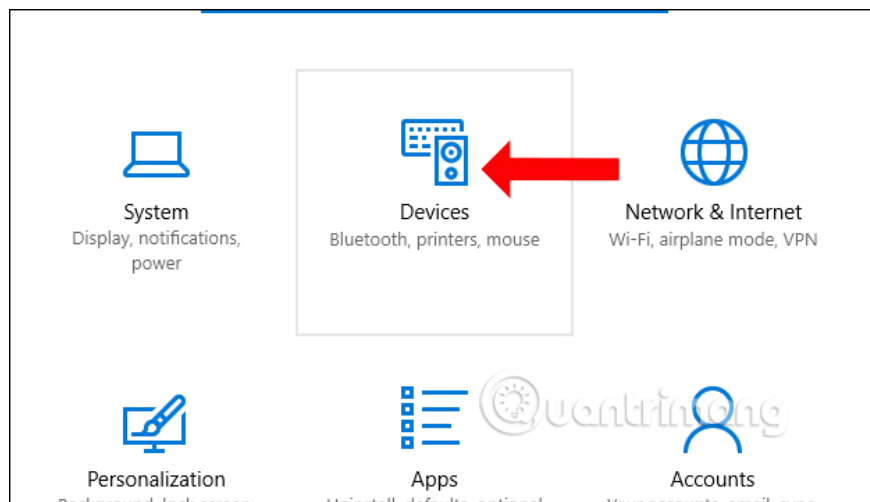

Step 1:

At the interface on the computer click on the Windows icon and then select the Settings icon . Or you can press Windows + I key combination to open the Windows Settings interface.

Step 2:

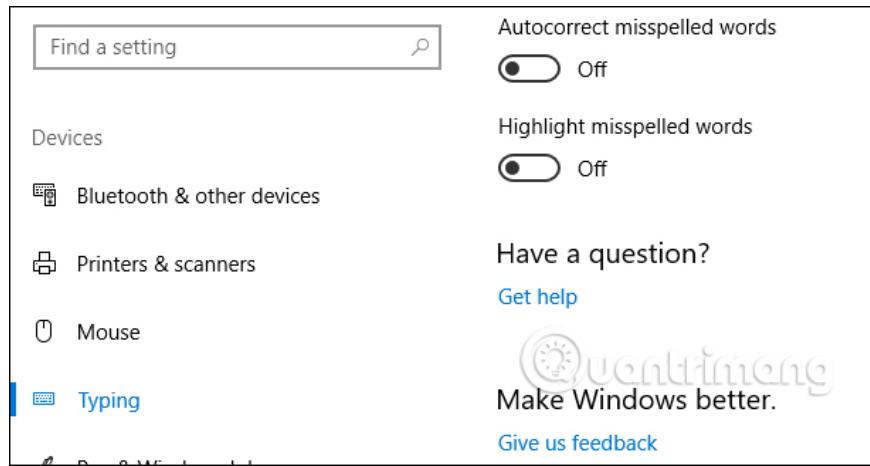

Switch to the new interface and click on Devices .

Step 3:

Here click on the Typing section on the left side of the screen, then look to the right to find the Spelling section. We turn off two Autocorrect misspelled words options and the Highlight misspelled words switch to Off mode to turn off automatic spell checking.

Finally restart the computer and reopen the Skype application for the changes to take effect.

The automatic spell checking feature is always enabled by default on Windows 10 to control content while importing data, including UWP applications. This inadvertently creates red bricks like when texting on Skype. Users only need to turn off this feature.
