When you cannot find the software in the Control panel, the cause can be from errors arising during the installation process, software in portable form (portable) or malware, the software does not leave registry keys,

1. Shorten DisplayName in Registry Key

When the display name of the application is longer than 32 characters, it will not be displayed. To fix this, do the following:

- Step 1: Press the key combination Windows + R> Type "regedit"> Press Enter.

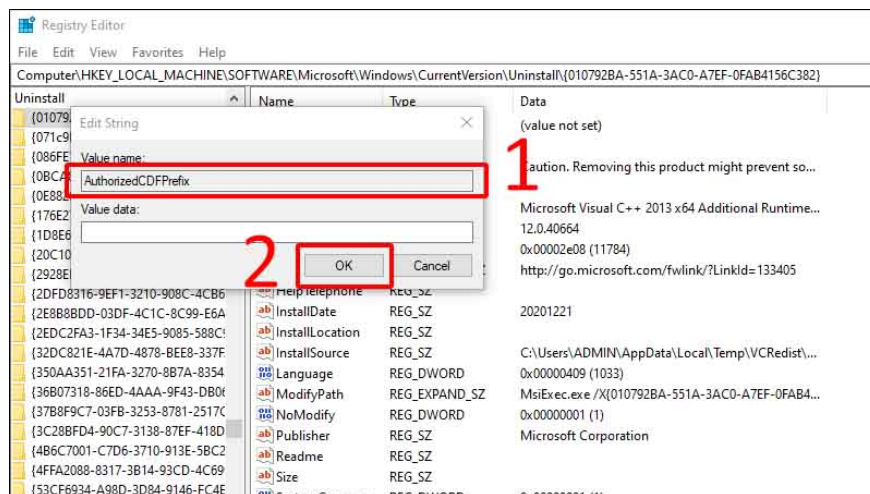

- Step 2: Go to the address

HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINESOFTWAREMicrosoftWindowsCurrentVersionUninstall.

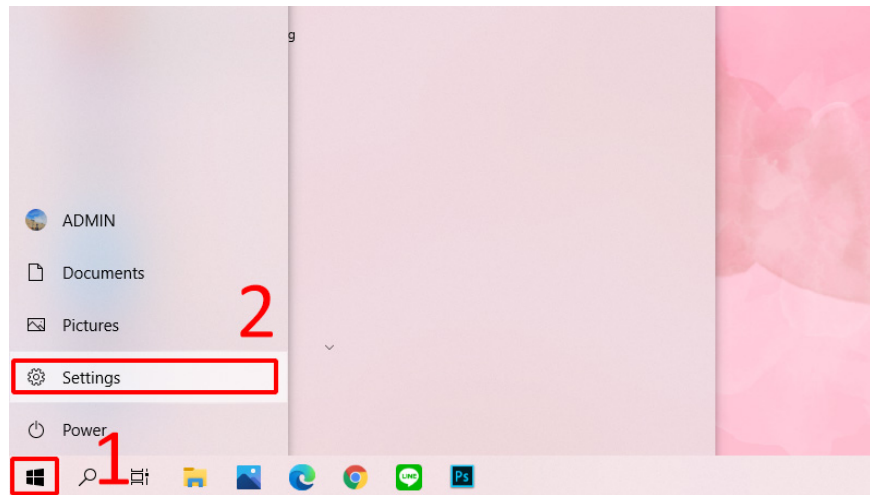

- Step 3: Double-click the software > Rename under DisplayName > OK.

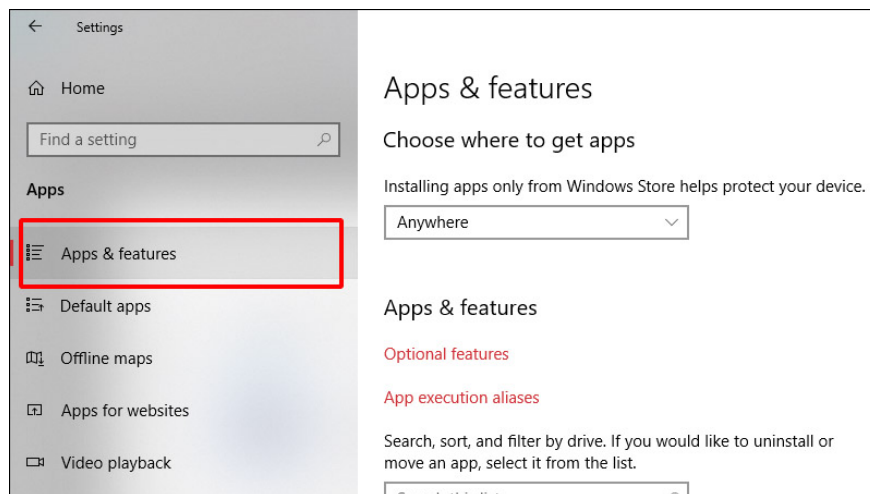

- Step 4: Close the Registry and open the Control Panel to delete the application.

2. Windows 10 Settings

- Step 1: Select Start > Select Settings (gear icon).

- Step 2: In Settings, choose Apps> Apps and Features.

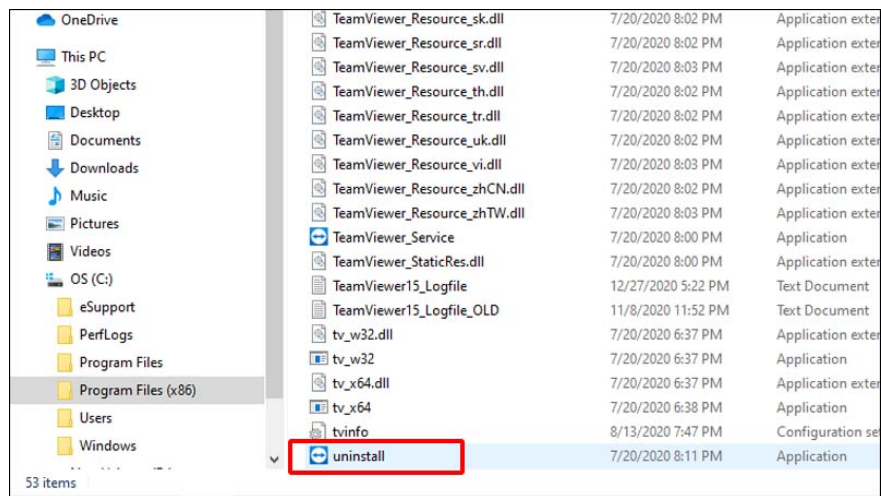

Check if the software you want to uninstall appears, if so, select Uninstall to remove it.

3. Check the uninstaller in Programs Folder

Most software is installed in C: Program Files and C: Program Files (x86). You can try searching for uninstallers of these programs in folders and launch them to uninstall the software.

Uninstallers usually have a software icon and an .exe extension.

4. Download and reinstall the software

If the above methods have not been done, please proceed to download and reinstall the software. At this point, since the software is already on the machine, you will be asked to uninstall the software before resetting it.

5. Use uninstall software

To easily uninstall software, you can use third-party software. Link to download some popular uninstall software:
